For Updates, Information and GREAT Offers on the fly-Text SASS to 772937!

The Cowboy Chronicle

The Monthly Journal of the Single Action Shooting Society®

Vol. 27 No. 10

© Single Action Shooting Society, Inc.

October 2014

BOOMTOWNS!

≫Winter Range 2014 ≫

SASS National Championship Of Cowboy Action Shooting

By Larsen E. Pettifogger, SASS #32933 Life/Regulator Photos by Deadeye Al, SASS #26454, Larsen E. Pettifogger, Quigley Photography

hoenix, Arizona. Boomtowns were an almost exclusively American feature in the later half of the Nineteenth Century. In Europe and most other places around the globe, the crown and noblemen owned all the land and most people simply worked the land in return for a share of the crops. Immigrants from around the world flocked to America in search of something not found in their home countries - tens of millions of acres of public domain lands. If you worked the land, you could own it! Farming could bring basic sustenance, but few would get rich working the land, and, much of that land in the west was arid and not suitable. But there was another more powerful force drawing people to the West, and one that could turn a poor man into a rich one overnight: mining! Prospectors could roam the West looking for valuable minerals. Just like staking out a parcel of land for farming, it could lead to ownership. If a prospector found a mineral deposit capable of producing ore in paying quantities he could file a claim and own it.

The hallmark of the boomtown was that it was short lived. Once the mines played out, the town died. In 1877 Ed Shieffelin left the safety of an army post and set off to the southern Arizona desert in search of his fortune. People told him "the only rock you will find out there is your own tombstone." He found silver in 1877, and in March 1879 the town of Tombstone was founded. By 1881, the year of the gunfight at the OK Corral, it was a major city with Chinese, French, Italian, Mexican and other restaurants, the-

(Continued on page 10)

SASS Comboy Chronicle

In This Issue

18 TRIBUTE TO CAT by Texas Flower

32 ROUNDUP 2
by Gray Warhorse

40 HELL ON THE BORDER by Back Forty

46 CODY WY

52 1014 DISPATCHES by Capt. George Baylor

60 ALFERD PACKER by Big Dave

~~~~ CLICK any sections ~~~~

Correction - OOPS!

We mixed up captions on two photos within the Oregon State Championship Article in the September issue. The caption for Blackhorse, SASS #6825, whose photo appears on page 14 was placed under the photo of Huckleberry Hickock, SASS #88886, on page 16 and vice-versa. Our apologies to the shooters and for any confusion we may have caused.

| 11 1 2     | CLICK on any sections CLICK on any sections                           |
|------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 6          | FROM THE EDITOR The Comboy Chronicle The Changes are Here             |
| 8          | NEWS The SASS Pennsylvania State Championship IS BACK!                |
| 9          | LETTERS Comments From SASS Members                                    |
| 16, 17     | SASS - CONVENTION 2015 ((SIGN-UP TODAY!!!))                           |
| 18-24      | COSTUMING CORNER Life After Cat's Corner & The Combon Chronicle       |
| 26-43      | ON THE RANGE The Stampede at South River Eas'Dern Shore Round-Up      |
| 44-47      | CLUB REPORTS Shootin' Our Way Across America                          |
| 48-51      | WILD BUNCH CORNER Winter Range 2014 (Sass National Championship WB)   |
| 52-59      | GUNS & GEAR Things About Cowboy Hats You Likely Didn't Know - (Pt, 1) |
| 60-65      | HISTORY Hungry for Gold (Alferd Packer) Little Known Famous People    |
| 66         | PROFILES Scholarship Recipient                                        |
| 67         | TRAIL MARKER Always To Be Remembered                                  |
| 68-76      | ARTICLES Kiamichi Sunset Cartoon Corner (Pt. 2)                       |
| 77, 78     | GENERAL STORE / CLASSIFIED                                            |
| 7 9 | SASS MERCANTILE                                                       |
| 83         | SASS AFFILIATED CLUBS (MONTHLY)(ANNUAL)                               |
| 84         | POLITICAL The Founders' Words Reveal Intent                           |
|            |                                                                       |

Tex and Cat prepare to take a dip in the pool at the 2013 Victorian Dance Cruise.

***

Enjoy more images of our Editor Emeritus in Texas Flower's tribute to Cat Ballou, in this issue.

Visit our Website at SASSNET.COM

-----

SASS® Trademarks

SASS®, Single Action Shooting Society®,
END of TRAIL®, EOT®,
The Cowboy Action Shooting™,
Cowboy Action Shooting™,
CAS™, Wild Bunch™,
Wild Bunch Action Shooting™,
The World Championship of Cowboy Action Shooting™,
Bow-legged Cowboy Design, and the Rocking Horse Design are all trademarks of
The Single Action Shooting Society, Inc.
Any use or reproduction of these marks without the express written permission of SASS is strictly prohibited.

The Cowboy Thronicle

Editorial Staff

Skinny Editor-in-Chief

Misty Moonshine Managing Editor

Tex and Cat Ballou Editors Emeritus

Adobe Illustrator
Layout & Design

Mac Daddy Graphic Design

Prairie Mary

Advertising Manager

(505) 843-1320 • Cell: (505) 249-3573

Mary@sassnet.com

Staff Writers

Capgun Kid
Capt. George Baylor
Chilkoot
Col. Dan
Col. Richard Dodge
Joe Fasthorse
Larsen E. Pettifogger
Palaver Pete
White Smoke Steve Wolverine Wrangler

Tկր Մորտեսը Մկրտունե is published by The Wild Bunch, Board of Directors of The Single Action Shooting Society. For advertising information and rates, administrative, and editorial offices contact:

Chronicle Administrator
215 Cowboy Way
Edgewood, NM 87015
(505) 843-1320
FAX (505) 843-1333
email: SASSCHRON@sassnet.com
http://www.sassnet.com

The Combon Chronicle (ISSN 15399877) is published monthly by the Single Action Shooting Society, 215 Cowboy Way, Edgewood, NM 87015. Periodicals Postage is Paid at Edgewood, NM and additional mailing offices (USPS #032). POSTMASTER: Send address changes to The Combon Chronicle, 215 Cowboy Way, Edgewood, NM 87015.

DISCLAIMER - The Single Action Shooting Society does not guarantee, warranty or endorse any product or service advertised in this newspaper. The publisher also does not guarantee the safety or effectiveness of any product or service illustrated. The distribution of some products/services may be illegal in some areas, and we do not assume responsibility thereof. State and local laws must be investigated by the purchaser prior to purchase or use or products/services.

WARNING: Neither the author nor The Combing Chronicle can accept any responsibility for accidents or differing results obtained using reloading data. Variation in handloading techniques, components, and firearms will make results vary. Have a competent gunsmith check your firearms before firing.

Wild West Mercantile

7302 E. Main Street Suite #7 Mesa, AZ 85207

Local: 480-218-1181 Toll Free: 800-596-0444

Email: info@wwmerc.com Website: www.wildwestmercantile.com

The Biggest & Best Selection Of Authentic Old West Men's & Ladies Clothing, Boots, Hats & Much Much More!!!

Get 10% OFF

Men's Oak Tree Boots & Colorado Saddlery Spurs & Straps

Just Enter Coupon Code Cowboy 10 at check out and get an extra 10% OFF your purchase of a Men's Oak Tree Boots & Colorado Saddlery Spurs & Straps.

Code good October 1, 2014 through October 31, 2014

www.wildwestmercantile.com

Store Hours

Monday-Saturday 10am - 6pm Closed Sunday

Questions?

Email the Trailboss at

info@wwmerc.com

Full Line Dealer / Taylor's & Company / Cimarron FA

ACTION JOBS AND CUSTOM WORK

LONG HUNTER SHOOTING NUMEROUS RIFLE AND PISTOL PARTS

New training DVD!!

This two discs DVD set has a run time of 2 hours and 18 minutes with a menu at the beginning to allow the viewer to select a specific topic.

The eight topics are:

Prospective New Shooters Handgun Rifle Shotgun Important Basic Skills Transitions Proper Practice Preparing for the Match

Price - $29.95

@ RUGER

New Vaquero, Bisley New Vaquero, SASS® New Vaquero & Blackhawk w/ action work

Vaquero's Starting At $695.00 Blackhawk's Starting At $610.00

Taylors, Cimarron, & Uberti Firearms.

Box to Holster, ready to go.

Call or see website for caliber and barrel options that are right for you.

Competition Gun Parts

1866-1873

Short Stroke Kits $160.00 Aluminum Carriers $60.00 Mainspring Conversions SlixPrings / SS Magazine Tubes SS Magazine Spring SS Magazine Follower

Marlin

1894/95/336 one pc firing pin Starting at $30.00 Safety replacement $17.00

Rear Sights

Marbles Flattop, Semi and Full Buckhorn $20.00

Front Sights

Including Grabber, Pioneer And Marbles

Revolvers

Ruger Spring Kits $14.00

Colt And Clone

Lee's Gunslinger Spring Kit $26.00

Stoeger Shotgun Parts

SS Firing Pins $25.00 pr Reduced Tension Lever Spring $5.00 Spanner Wrench $15.00

Winchester 1897 Parts

6 Round Mag Conversion Solid Frame or Takedown $30.00

Rifle and Shotgun Butt Covers $54.00 Lever Wraps $15.00

> Call or see website for additional parts.

Range Ready Rifles Models 1873/1866

1873 starting at $1625.00 / 1866 starting at $1525.00

All Rifles Include – ACTION WORK, short stroke kit, Alum. carrier, Slixprings, lever wrap, stainless mag tube spring, stainless follower, new firing pin and spring. Plus a grabber, pioneer speed sight, or XS front sight. Over $350 in parts goes into every 1873/1866 we sell!

Rifle action work only: $185 / Action work plus above parts: $495

KIRKPATRIC K

Since 2004 Long Hunter SASS #20389 has been partnered with Kirkpatrick Leather working to design a 'Holster of Champions' for Cowboy Action' Shooters. Full line dealer for Kirkpatrick Leather.

NOW AVAILABLE BADMAN BULLETS

"PREMIUM ACTION JOB"
RUGERS, COLTS, AND CLONES
PREMIUM ACTION JOB $135
RETURN SHIPPING $25

- (806) 342-0000 -

OR VISIT US ONLINE AT WWW.LONGHUNT.COM 3403 SOUTHWEST 6TH AVENUE, AMARILLO TX 79106 MasterCard

FAX # (806) 342-0007

The Cowboy Chronicle The Changes are Here

By Skinny

The dust has about settled; Tex and Cat are easing into their well-deserved retirement, and The Combay Chronicle is in the process of undergoing some significant changes, not the least of which is the changeover to all-digital format. I know from speaking with many of you that not everyone is entirely pleased with this, but trust me, it is necessary to ensure the future well being of SASS, and I feel you will all come to appreciate the benefits of digital publishing as it becomes more familiar to you.

You may ask, "What are some of these benefits?" Well, one of my favorites is the ability we now have to embed videos into each edition. So now a club can take moving images of certain stages and include those in a club report. Or advertisers may include a video of interest in their layouts. Also of note is our new capability to allow you to click on a section in the Table of Contents and go directly to that location, so there's no need to go through the issue page by page. In the same way, we can also include hyperlinks to other websites, including club websites, so if you'd like readers to be able to see complete scores and standings for a match, you need include only your web address.

For those who wish to keep an archived copy of each issue of The Combon Chronicle on their computer or tablet,

(Continued on next page)

Lever Wrap $15.00

Reload Strap $356.00

Reload Strap $15.00

Reload Str

Ph. 956-723-6631 www.kirkpatrickleather.com

The Cowboy Chronicle • The Changes are Here

(Continued from previous page)

we will continue to update our archives with PDF versions of back issues. Starting with this issue, the archived editions will lag behind our digital releases by one month or so, however. So this issue will be available in archives next month, November's issue will be available in December, and so on. Please note, the archived PDFs will not include many of the features from the digital editions, such as video imbeds, so your best reading experience will still be with the live digital edition.

Aside from our format change, you'll note some changes in content as well. Even though Cat has retired, she promises to continue to contribute articles on costuming as the mood strikes her, and there are a number of other talented ladies (and men) waiting in the wings, who will be presenting material relevant to costuming and to other aspects of Cowboy Action Shooting<sup>TM</sup> as they relate to lady shooters, so a section for such material will remain. Since Cat personally will no longer publish a monthly column, it seemed inappropriate to continue to refer to it "Cat's Corner," so with this issue, that section has been renamed "Costuming Corner." But given the proposed wider scope of the column, "Costuming Corner" may be too narrow a descriptive, so I would be pleased to hear from our readership with ideas for other names.

A new feature, which began last issue, is "Comic Book Corner." As your new editor, I come from a 30-year background in the comic book industry, and as such I thought it would be fun to republish scanned pages from old Western-themed comic books that are now in the public domain. I think they're really fun to read and I hope everyone enjoys them as much as I do. Last issue we presented them as four pages of comic book to a single page of The Combog Chronicle. It seemed like a good idea, but a few people have commented they are hard to read that small, and I agree. This issue we're experimenting with presenting them one page at a time. Hopefully, everyone will have a more pleasant experience with them now.

And that's about all you're going to get out of me for this initial editorial—just a "glad to be on board" piece. As for the future, well, I really never know what I'm going to write about until I start writing, but it's my hope to make each editorial an enjoyable read. Thanks to all of you for loyally following Tex and Cat in The Combay Chronicle over the past decades, and thanks to everyone for the support you've already shown me through your emails. I hope to live up to your expectations and I hope to hold the reins for the next few decades.

The SASS Pennsylvania State Championship

IS BACK!

That does a posse do when their state is left without a championship? In the case of El Posse Grande, they "cowboy up" and ride again.

El Posse Grande had hosted the SASS Pennsylvania State Championship for 10 years. During the ninth year, they announced that number 10 would be their last. With so much advance notice, everyone thought surely another club would step forward to host the match, however, that was not to be. Although several clubs gave it serious thought, nothing materialized. As a result, there was no state match in 2014.

A small group of El Posse Grande cowboys and cowgirls got together and gave things a real hard look. They went to the North Mountain Sportsman's Association, the main club, to gain support. They talked to some of the key people that had worked on the match in the past. Some folks assumed their old positions some did not. Some that worked in much smaller roles in the past have now stepped forward to take on larger roles. All told, there's a whole bunch of experience working on this match.

Preliminary plans are in place. The date has been set for May 22-24, 2015. Lost Rider, SASS #50731, is the match director. The match theme will be "My Heroes Have Always Been Cowboys." We have selected 10 true American heroes and will highlight one on each of the ten stages of the match. The side matches will feature the popular arcade games, long range and other speed events. Pennsylvania's own state champion, Jerseytown Kid, SASS #88434, will be putting together a shooting clinic. Proceeds will benefit the SASS Scholarship Fund.

Many more details need to be hammered out in the coming weeks. We are also working on developing a program to improve vendor success and reward shooters for supporting the vendors. (Vendors are just as important as shooters for our events.) There has been much talk about hosting a Saturday banquet that would rival a Dooley Gang party! Yeehaw! Our newer committee members are eager to jump in and get to work by offering up their ideas and backing up returning committee workers. Their enthusiasm has sparked new enthusiasm in veteran committee workers.

There have always been offers from shooters in other parts of the state, and out of state as well, to lend a hand when needed. If you are one of those and want to help, get in touch with us. Tell us just how you or your club might want to be of assistance. You know the adage—"Many hands make light work." Let's work together to make this a true State Match.

If you want to learn more or get in touch with someone on the committee, there are a few ways you can do so. We have a Facebook page – El Posse Grande. Ask to join the group. We have new website too. You can now visit us at www.elpossegrande.com. Watch for more details to appear on the SASS wire, our site or on Facebook. We will be posting updates all along.

Come spend Memorial Day weekend in Pennsylvania's endless mountains and pay tribute with us to some true heroes. ...

Submit a Recipe for the 2014 SASS Cookbook!

Click Here to Submit Your Recipe or visit www.sassnet.com

Submission Deadline is October 20th.

Submit all Recipes to: amber@sassnet.com

Or Mail the Downloaded Form to: SASS Cookbook, 215 Cowboy Way Edgewood NM, 87015

The Right to Keep and Bear Arms

The discussion about the mentally ill and their right to bear arms is extremely difficult to manage. Even doctors have trouble assessing the capabilities of their patients. The ACLU has fought successfully to not include listing mental illness as a qualification to purchase a firearm.

Also our military warriors who come home suffering with PTSD of various degrees are affected. The case of Chris Kyle and his friend taking a fellow warrior out to help him get through tough times and having him shoot them both is troubling.

I really enjoy your articles and refer to them regularly with friends and not so friendly. Some of the founding father quotes are difficult to find. It would help if references were identified to refer to when quoting to non-believers.

Will Call, SASS #22027 Gardnerville, NV

*****

Will, Thank you for the kind words regarding my column. I very much appreciate you taking the time to express your thoughts and I'm honored that you share my musings with others.

As for the Founder's quotes, I think you'll enjoy my article in this edition. It is completely dedicated to what our Founders said about Americans' right to keep and bear arms.

Soldier on...
Colonel Dan

We need your Cowboy Stories!
Contact "SKINNY"
skinny111@icloud.com

Advertise today in The Comboy Chronicle

Call SASS Headquarters at 505-843-1320 or email cowboychronicle@sassnet.com

SASS is Proud to Launch the Refer a Friend Program! Refer a Friend today and Earn!

Our new Refer a Friend Program, is a great way to get your friends to become members of SASS, and you benefit from it! All you have to do is Refer a friend to become a SASS member, and both of you will receive an additional 3 months to your Membership!

To learn more about the Refer a Friend Program, or to get a friend signed up, contact us today!

Toll Free (U.S. Only): (877) 411-SASS (877) 411-7277 Outside the U.S.: (505) 843-1320

We would like to thank you for being such a dedicated member of SASS and helping this organization grow.

BOOMTOWNS! • WINTER RANGE 2014

(Continued on next page)

(Continued from page 1)

atres, a bowling alley, a roller-skating rink, an ice cream parlor, an icehouse, a school and the most important feature of a boomtown – dozens of saloons and brothels. An underground aquifer was struck and by 1886 the mines were permanently flooded and the glory days of Tombstone were over. The west became dotted with ghost towns and the ruins of played out mining camps. This is the story of one of them: "Boomtown Winter Range."

GOLD! The very mention of a strike can start a rush. So it was in the Arizona Territory in February of this year. In a vacant field west of Carefree, a lonely prospector saw the glint of gold. Within hours he had staked his claim and begun work. It was the morning of Wednesday, February 19. Word spread like wildfire and within hours the area was filled with people. The Arizona Company of Territorial Roughriders was brought in to maintain order and supervise the rapidly growing new town site. At first it was the miners and their sluice boxes and ore cars. Next a detachment of cavalry set up camp and began construction of a fort to protect the townsfolk. Makeshift buildings of wood with canvas sides and roofs went up and began selling supplies

The Town

The railroad reaches Boomtown Winter Range.

The law arrives in town.

The general store.

There'll be services this Sunday.

The permanent fort.

The brand new Grand Palace Hotel.

The barbershop, telegraph office and assay office.

The town's largest saloon.

The local Indian tribe has settled in for the winter.

(Continued from previous page)

needed for the mines and the rapidly expanding town. Soon the erection of permanent buildings began. A livery, a Grand Hotel, a Saloon, a General Store and all those things necessary to house, feed, supply and entertain the ever growing population of the new town. The railroad sent out an exploratory team and soon a new terminus was built.

The influx of cowboys, miners, soldiers and sutlers soon overwhelmed the ability to construct new buildings and a tent city went up on the edge of town. The work continued at a furious pace until just FOUR days later what had been a vacant field was turned into a full-fledged town and opened to the world at noon on Sunday, February 23. People hoping to strike gold, silver, or bronze flocked in from around the world. Men and their ladies in their finest clothes, cowboys, schoolmarms, bar tenders and saloon girls, and ladies of the night soon filled the streets. In order to maintain order and provide entertainment the Arizona Company of Territorial Rough Riders started organizing people into posses and then began having shooting competitions. At night there were fashion shows and contests to see who had the most fancy duds. And of course, there was gambling of various sorts.

The shooting contests proved the most popular and went on non-stop for six days. There were contests for all manner of firearms from Sharps rifles, shot at long range, to the gambler's favorites, the pocket pistol and derringer, shot across a card table. After what the Rough Riders called side matches and warm-ups, the main event began on Thursday, February 27. Over 750 shooters lined up to see who could be the fastest gun in the west (or what some people called "categories"). The shooting went on for three days and finally on the evening of Saturday, March 1, as the smoke settled and the sun set, it was over. At its height on Saturday, Boomtown Winter Range had over 8,000 residents. But that was about to change. On Sunday morning, March 2, the sixteen fastest ladies and the sixteen fastest men met for a final showdown. Before the assembled multitude, the shooting commenced. When it was over the last woman standing was Sass Kicker, SASS #91899 and the last man standing was Santa Fe River Stan, SASS #36999. After the last shot was fired everyone retired to the main tent and awards were passed out to the winners of the "categories." Bronze statues with gold and silver buckles went to the first place winners. Smaller statues and bronze buckles went to those who placed second through fifth and everyone that placed in the top ten got a bronze buckle. The top guns for the entire Cowboy Action Shooting<sup>TM</sup> event were Cobra Cat, SASS #19275, and SASS Kicker.

Then something amazing happened. The gold, silver, and bronze had played out and the town was doomed. Within minutes after the last bronze was handed out, the Rough Riders,

(Continued on page 12)

BOOMTOWNS! • WINTER RANGE 2014

(Continued from page 11)

Rangers and volunteers changed into their work clothes and began dismantling the town. By five o'clock on Monday, March 2, there was nothing left but an empty field. Boomtown Winter Range was over. Or was it?

Historians have looked back at the history of Boomtown Winter Range and discovered the erection and taking down of the town was not mere happenstance. It was, in fact, a carefully planned and executed event. It seems there are about twenty Rough Riders that plan and work on Winter Range year round. There are around thirty-five Rangers that sign on for a two-week tour of duty to help with construction and running the match. And there are more than 100 shooters that volunteer to help man the side matches on Wednes-

(Continued on next page)

Winner of "Best Dressed Sutlers," Buckaroo Bobbins.

Pietta donated six revolvers for a special young guns only drawing. The happy winners.

Red Hawk Trading Co., winner of "Best Sutler Encampment."

Winner of "Best Sutler Presentation," Coon Creek.

If you needed a club, they were available.

Sturm, Ruger & Co., the Winter Range Event Sponsor.

Plenty of clothes for the ladies.

Pietta was there as the Cowboy Action Shooting<sup>TM</sup> match sponsor.

Lunchtime is always crowded in the food court.

And plenty of clothes for the gents.

(Continued from previous page)

day. Each year the Rough Riders do their best to create a new shooting environment and to build at least two or three entirely new stages. Everything is done with the idea, "what can we do to make the shooters have more fun?" The planning, stage design and building goes on off-site all year round. Then a color-coded construction manual is created showing every prop and (Continued on page 14) target that will go on each stage. The Ben Avery Shooting Facility is a public range so Winter Range has to reserve the various bays needed for the event a year in advance. Trailers are loaded with the props and targets designated for each stage and once the bays are clear of other shooters, the construction of Winter Range begins. Separate work crews, under the supervision of a Ranger Captain, are responsible for specific stages and tasks. Once construction starts on the Wednesday before the match, it is non-stop work for four days. Meals are served on-site to the volunteers. Once the match is over, everything comes down as methodically as it went up and is stored in an area off-site.

BOOMTOWNS! • WINTER RANGE 2014

(Continued from page 13)

(Continued on next page)

The overall match winners, Sass Kicker and Cobra Cat.

Ladies shooting school instructors.

Before each wave on opening day there was a memorial overflight for all our pards that have passed in the last year.

U.S. Grant, SASS #2, with a gun to be given to the shooter whose overall rank was the same as the General's age.

First stage jitters - Hmm, is that one shot on target . . .

YeeHaa, a clean stage!!!

Derringer side match.

The livery.

The fort.

The trestle stage.

BOOMTOWNS! • Winter Range 2014

(Continued from previous page)

The theme for 2015 is "Cowboys – Life in the Old West." Planning began the day after Boomtown Winter Range ended. There were over 800 registrations this year. After subtracting no-shows, 761 Cowboy Action Shooting<sup>TM</sup> advocates participated. The Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> and Mounted events were also the largest of their kind held anywhere in the world. Winter Range 2015 will take place from February 23rd through March 1st, 2015. See you there!

| A B-25 with escorts made several overf |
|----------------------------------------|
|----------------------------------------|

| SIDE M            | ATCH WINNERS        | Pocket Pist | col                             |
|-------------------|---------------------|-------------|---------------------------------|
| Derringer         |                     | Man         | Territorial Ryder               |
| Man               | Desperado Dale      | TVICII      | SASS #31939                     |
|                   | SASS #25754 FL      | Lady        | Dixie Bell                      |
| Lady              | Shamrock Sadie      |             | SASS #5366                      |
| J                 | SASS #78511 SC      | Shotgun     |                                 |
| Long Rang         | e                   | Clays-      |                                 |
| Buckey O'N        | Veill               | Black       |                                 |
| Military Bol      | lt H. F. McCawley   | Powder      | O1 #4                           |
|                   | SASS #92869 AZ      |             | SASS #41004                     |
| Buckey O'N        | Veill               | Clays-      |                                 |
| Military          |                     | Smokeless   | Czexican Dave                   |
| S.S.              | Pigpen              |             | SASS #90515                     |
|                   | SASS #1339 AZ       | Skeet-      |                                 |
|                   |                     | Black       |                                 |
| Pistol            | Shotgun Boogie      | Powder      | Territorial Ryder               |
|                   | SASS #67870         | Skeet-      |                                 |
|                   | Germany             | Smokeless   | Goatneck Clem                   |
| Rifle-            |                     |             | SASS #16787                     |
| Buffalo           |                     | Trap–       |                                 |
| Shoot             | Nathan Curtis Boone | Black       |                                 |
|                   | SASS #99195 AZ      | Powder      | Tame Bill                       |
| Rifle-            |                     |             | SASS #30699                     |
| S.S.              |                     | Speed Pisto |                                 |
| Buffalo           | River City Reb      | Man         | Deuce Stevens                   |
| 5.0               | SASS #56308 AZ      |             | SASS #55996                     |
| Rifle-            | m 11 151            | Lady        | Sass Kicker                     |
| Optical           | Tumbleweed Ed       | C ID.G      | SASS #91899                     |
| D.G               | SASS #65484 NV      | Speed Rifle |                                 |
| Rifle-            |                     | Man         | Deuce Stevens                   |
| PistolCaliber | Doc Nelson          | Lady        | Sass Kicker                     |
| Camber            |                     | 1           | gun – Double Deuce Stevens      |
| Rifle-            | SASS #19958 UT      | Man         |                                 |
|                   | Jus D               | Lady        | Dang It's DarlinSASS #17502 |
| Quigley           | SASS #67861 AZ      | Speed       | SASS #17302                     |
| Rifle-            | 3A35#07001 AZ       | Shotgun – S | 87                              |
| Rifle–Rifle   |                     | Shotgun -   | Lassiter                        |
| Caliber           | Muleskinner Pat     |             | SASS #2080                      |
| Canoci            | SASS #1997 CA       | Speed Shot  |                                 |
| Rifle-            | 51155 111777 - CH   | Man         | Hells Comin                     |
|                   | Cowtown Scout       | 1,1411      | SASS #56436                     |
| Single Blist      | SASS #53540 TX      | Lady        | Sass Kicker                     |
| Plainsman         |                     |             |                                 |
|                   | SASS #20645 CA      |             |                                 |
|                   |                     |             |                                 |

|                 | WINNERS   |     | Lady B-W       | Whirlwind Wen    | dy   |  |  |
|-----------------|------------------|-----|----------------|------------------|------|--|--|
| 49'er Blackjack |                  |     | SASS #79889 CA |                  |      |  |  |
|                 | Zak              |     | Lady Duelist   |                  |      |  |  |
|                 | SASS #26828      | ΑZ  |                | Dixie Bell       |      |  |  |
| B-Western       | Slick McClade    |     |                | SASS #5366       | UT   |  |  |
|                 | SASS #69490      | LA  | Lady F. Car    | t.               |      |  |  |
| Buckaroo        | Cody James       |     |                | Squeaky Hare     |      |  |  |
|                 | SASS #90540      | ΑZ  |                | SASS #63737      | AZ   |  |  |
| Buckarette      | Bonnie MacFarl   | ane | L.F.C. Duelist |                  |      |  |  |
|                 | SASS #92385      | CA  |                | Painted Filly    |      |  |  |
| C. Baron        | Rosita Gambler   |     |                | SASS #86383      | CO   |  |  |
|                 | SASS #41377      | CO  | L. Gunfight    | ter              |      |  |  |
| C. Cowboy       | T-Bone Dooley    |     |                | Half-A-Hand H    | enri |  |  |
|                 | SASS #36388      | TX  |                | SASS #9727       | NM   |  |  |
| C. Cowgirl      | Hot Tamale       |     | Lady Senio     | r Lilly Long     |      |  |  |
|                 | SASS #78531      | ΑZ  |                | SASS #81344      | UT   |  |  |
| Cowboy          | Cobra Cat        |     | Lady S. Ser    | nior             |      |  |  |
|                 | SASS #19275      | CO  |                | Two Sons         |      |  |  |
| Cowgirl         | Crazy Little Wor | man |                | SASS #12636      | IN   |  |  |
|                 | SASS #82394      | CA  | Lady Wrangler  |                  |      |  |  |
| Duelist         | Grazer           |     |                | Sassy Dancer     |      |  |  |
|                 | SASS #38845      | MA  |                | SASS #70118      | AZ   |  |  |
| E. Statesman    |                  |     | Senior         | Doc Noper        |      |  |  |
|                 | Evil Roy         |     |                | SASS #65017      | MI   |  |  |
|                 | SASS #2883       | TX  | S. Duelist     | J. M. Brown      |      |  |  |
| F. Cartridge    | Kiowa Kid        |     |                | SASS #27309      | NC   |  |  |
|                 | SASS #69870      | CO  | S. Gunfight    | er               |      |  |  |
| F.C. Duelist    | t Lefty Eastman  |     |                | Lassiter         |      |  |  |
|                 | SASS #20645      | CA  |                | SASS #2080       | OH   |  |  |
| Frontiersma     |                  |     | S. Senior      | Ol Short Tom     |      |  |  |
|                 | Kidd Thunder     |     |                | SASS #12635      | IN   |  |  |
|                 | SASS #25814      | WA  | Wrangler       | Duke Skywalke    |      |  |  |
| Grande Dar      |                  |     |                | SASS #26871      | IN   |  |  |
|                 | Running Bare     |     |                |                  |      |  |  |
|                 | SASS #2323       | CA  |                | OVERALL          |      |  |  |
| Gunfighter      | Dang-It-Dan      |     | Man            | Cobra Cat        |      |  |  |
|                 | SASS #13202      | FL  | Lady           | Sass Kicker      |      |  |  |
| Junior          | Matt Black       |     |                |                  |      |  |  |
|                 | SASS #54580      | TX  |                | OP SIXTEEN       |      |  |  |
| Junior Girl     |                  |     | Man            | Santa Fe River S |      |  |  |
|                 | SASS #91899      | AZ  |                | SASS #36999      | FL   |  |  |
| Lady 49'er      | Dang It's Darlin |     | Lady           | Sass Kicker      |      |  |  |
|                 | SASS #17502      | FL  |                |                  |      |  |  |

OR

UT

OR

TX

TX

KS

MI

ΑZ

FL

ОН

ΑZ

THE ONE AND ONLY CONVENTION DEDICATED TO SASS AND COWBOY ACTION SHOOTING

The 12th SASS Convention will be held at the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center in San Antonio, Texas!

SASS has negotiated a "run of the house" agreement with the hotels, and a special Convention room rate for attendees is offered. Space at the Menger, and the Crockett is limited, make your reservations today!

SASS Members staying at the Menger or Crockett receive a discount on their convention sign-up. Make you reservations TODAY!

To make reservations at the CROCKETT HOTEL, CALL: (210) 225-6500

To make reservations at the MENGER HOTEL, CALL: (210) 223-4361 OR (800) 345-9285

FOR MORE INFORMATION OR TO REGISTER TODAY CONTACT US AT:

(877) 411-SASS

WWW.SASSNET.COM

Texas Flower, SASS # 43753

LIFE AFTER Cat's The Comboy Chronicle Opner

Retirement?

By Texas Flower, SASS Life #43753
Photos by Texas Flower

- 2006 Shootout at Mule Camp - My first picture with Cat and Tex; I was asleep!

OMG, Cat's retiring from The Combon Chronicle! I cannot believe that! LOL!

RETIREMENT... Wait, I think she means it!

ow that the reality has struck me, I am fondly remembering many wonderful memories of our "one and only" First Lady of Costuming, Cat Ballou. What a gracious, talented, and lovely LADY! (FYI, she is also a very good shooter, with lots of "clean" matches!)

Her devotion to The Combay Chronicle and promoting costuming through "Cat's Corner" has truly been a testament to her dedication to make SASS what it has become today. I heard her say on many occasions, "I need to get the next Chronicle finished before I leave for the match." I saw her many times between shooting flights working diligently at her computer. She has given so many countless hours to The Comboy Chronicle and "Cat's Corner" for SASS members to enjoy.

2008 Comin' At Cha –
 Mardi Gras Theme.

2008 SASS Convention

When I joined SASS in 2002, I joined because I was attracted to the "cool" costumes that I saw SASS members wearing in pictures. (I had to learn to shoot the guns so I could dress up!) As The Combay Chronicle hit my mailbox every month, I went straight to Cat's Corner to learn what I could about costuming. I was never disappointed reading her corner, and I continued learning (Continued on next page)

Life After Cat's Corner and The Cowboy Chronicle - Retirement?

(Continued from previous page)

2009 SASS Convention Banquet Ball.

– 2012 Bordertown – Fun at the dance.

- 2010 Bordertown - Trying to figure out how to shoot the stage.

2012 Bordertown –
 Shooting with Tex, Jr.

through the articles that appeared each month.

I first met Cat Ballou at the 2006 Shootout at Mule Camp, and I was star struck! I entered my very first costume contest there, and she was one of the judges. I was very nervous. There was "THE" Cat Ballou right in front of me! She was so gracious and tried to make all the contestants feel comfortable. After the banquet, I took my very first picture with her for my scrapbook. Little did I know at that time the Lady I looked up to for costuming would become a dear SASS friend.

As Texas Mac, SASS Life #43494, and I attended matches, the SASS Conventions, and Victorian Dance Cruises, we became friends with Cat and Tex. We shared lots of fun times and lots of laughs with them. For those of you who know them, you know there is never a dull moment!

- 2013 Victorian Dance Cruise - With Texas Mac.

2011 Victorian Dance Cruise.

Oh BTW, Tex is also retiring from The Combon Chronicle. I want to say a big "Thank You" to him, "Mr. Cat Ballou," for everything he has done to promote costuming in our wonderful sport and the time he dedicated to the Chronicle!

Yes, things are changing. That's life, but the rest of us will do our best to continue the legacy that Cat and Tex started. We wish them the very best retirement. May they continue in good health and enjoy many good years ahead. We look forward to seeing them at SASS events, and maybe they will have more time to play without worrying about getting the next Chronicle finished!

Thank you both for all the years, 27 of them, devoted to The Comboy Chronicle each and every month!

HAPPY TRAILS, MY FRIENDS!

Winter Range 2014

SASS Life #32933

Cl 4° TM

SASS National Championship Of Cowboy Action Shooting<sup>TM</sup>

COSTUME CONTEST

By Larsen E. Pettifogger, SASS #32933 Life/Regulator

Boomtowns!!! They sprang up suddenly and people from all walks of life quickly filled the streets; miners, cowboys, soldiers, railway workers, saloon girls, ladies of the night, gentlemen, and gentle ladies in their finest attire. Boomtowns had them all and pretty much all at the same time! Walking down the streets and alleys of Boomtown Winter Range evidences the thing that sets Cowboy Action Shooting™ apart from all other shooting sports—the costumes! Not only do we shoot firearms from the Old West, everyone dresses Old West as well. The costuming helps create the aura of living in that time period and adds a flare to Cowboy Action Shooting™ found in no other shooting venue. For many people attending SASS matches, the costuming is as important as the shooting, especially at a major match with a costume contest. In fact, many people, when asked about their costumes will say, "what (Continued on page 23)

Best Dressed Gentleman – By Doggie, SASS #7533 – NM

Best Dressed Working Lady – Queen of Bling, SASS #94718 – CA

Best Dressed Cowboy – Mad Dog McCoy, SASS #17292 – CA

Best Dressed Junior Girl and Best Dressed Working Junior Girl – Fast Draw Fawn, SASS #94157 – UT

Winter Range 2014 ——— (SASS National Championship of Cowboy Action Shooting<sup>TM</sup>)

- Best Dressed Couple -Legendary Lawman, SASS #73160, and Serenity, SASS #64982 - ON

Best Dressed Junior Boy -Nick Nitro, SASS #94156 -UT

- Best Dressed Military -Bat Masterson, SASS #2919 – CO

Best Dressed Silver Screen Man -Augustus Goodnight, SASS #99514 – AZ

Best Dressed Saloon Girl -Lady Joy, SASS #90932 -AZ

Best Dressed Cowgirl -Riverboat Annie, SASS #60914 - CO

Best Dressed Silver Screen Lady -Dr. T Medicine Woman, SASS #80719 - NM

Best Dressed Working Man - Marshal W Hill, SASS #88223 – AZ

- Best Dressed Lady -Dixie Bell, SASS #5366 – UT

Winter Range 2014 (SASS National Championship of Cowboy Action Shooting<sup>TM</sup>)

(Continued from previous page)

costume, these are the clothes I wear every day."

The time and effort many people put into their costuming is astonishing. The gowns of the ladies and suits of the men along with the period correct accouterments make it feel like you are at a social gathering in Nineteenth Century America. The grit and grime of the working cowboys makes it seem like they have just stepped into the saloon from a months-long cattle drive. Judging these costumes is difficult, since they are all fantastic. To help out with this year's costume contest, Winter

Range was fortunate to have representatives from The Barrington House Educational Center as judges. (www.bartoscollection.com/thebarringtonhouse.html.) The Barrington House is located in historic Prescott, Arizona, and houses a huge collection of western clothing and artifacts used in the daily lives of people from Nineteenth Century America.

After visiting the firing line to see people in their working costumes and inviting those with their evening finery in off the streets to show off their costumes, the selections were made, as can be seen in the accompanying photos.

(Continued on page 24)

– Best Gun Cart – By Doggie

The Winter Range Costume Contest Judges

Jack Dalton Western Gun Leather

High quality, custom made leather goods. Commonly used by Single Action Shooting Society (SASS) and old west aficionados.

Please like us on Facebook

Shooting School Now in Texas!

Located appx 75 miles 5W of Fort Worth. GROUP & PRIVATE CLASSES Beginner to Expert Tailored to your needs.

Call for Appointment

EVIL ROY TRAINING DVD'S Thousands Sold! Handgun, Rifle, Shotgun, Gunhandling & Wild Bunch.

Evil Roy has taught more National and World Champions National and World Champions than any other instructor in SASS History. His practical and logical appreach to teaching is evident in these Videos as he guides both the beginner and seasoned shooter through the steps to be a better shooter.

OVERALL WORLD CHAMPION

EVIL ROY CIMARRON PISTOL SALE $640

Race ready with checkered grips, tuned action, wide sights

SPECIAL PACKAGE

MSRP $1,878 - SALE $1,615
2 Ext Ray race ready photols complete with ExtRoy or Holy Tenor Holsters & Belt Rig Other package priors upon request on Ruger or Cimarron Finants > 1873 Rifles 30" Deluce Pistal Grip.

| Shotguns                |  |
|-------------------------|--|
|                         |  |
| alkal Hammerless StS    |  |
| Stock 5375 / Tuned 5515 |  |
| 878 Coach Gun 20"       |  |
|                         |  |

1911's

16"Saddle Rifle full Octagon... (1873's available Tuned & Short Stroked - See Website eral Makes & Models Available

Full line — Mernickle Leather Dealer/Cimarron Firearms Dealer Contact Us for Best Prices Anywhere on Cimarron Firearms

WWW.EVILROY.COM

evilroy@evilroy.com

All prices plus S/H Prices subject to change

Great Deals on Cowboy Action and Modern Firearms See our Website for Firearms Listings

FEATURED ITEMS

Evil Roy 5.5",357 Evil Roy 7.5" 45LC

Eyil Roy 4.75".357 & 45LC Ruger Single Six 4.75"22 LR

Cimamon Wyatt Earp 10" with Medallion 45LC Ruger New Vaquero 4.58",357 & 45LC Cimarron 51 Richard-Mason Conversion 5.5"385P

Ruger SASS New Vaquero 5.5"45LC

Glocks & AR-15 available/Check website for additional firearms.

ALL FIREARMS MUST BE SHIPPED TO AN FFL-CALL FOR DETAILS ALL FIREARMS CAN BE SHIPPED DIRECTLY TO YOUR GUNSMITH OR WE WILL ARRANGE GUN SMITHING FOR YOU IF YOU WANT.

Costuming For The Twelfth Annual SASS Convention

By Cat Ballou, SASS #55

Justice Lily Kate Judge Roy Bean at the 2014 SASS Convention.

Major Photography.

Towdy y'all. The twelfth annual SASS Convention in ■ San Antonio, Texas is just a few short months away, so it's time to put on your thinkin' caps about what you will wear for the Best Dressed Costume Contest to be held at the historic Menger Hotel on Saturday evening.

Awards will be given from first to third place in the following categories: Ladies, Gentlemen, Couples, and Military, as well as a special themed category, Lone Star Cowboy and Lone Star Cowgirl. Here's a chance to celebrate the history of the great state of Texas and dress as your favorite Texan, or just create a fantasy Texas costume.

Our fabulous judges, Aspen Filly, Nellie Blue, Shotglass, Sqwauty Bawdy, Velvet Glove, and Aspen Wrangler will be faced with the difficult task of determining the winners from all your fantastic costumes.

Thanks in advance to our sponsor, Wild West Mercantile of Mesa, Arizona, C. S. Fly and Claudia Feather, proprietors, for your many years of supporting costume contests throughout SASS.

Hope to see y'all in January in San Antone. Yee Haw!

Old West Cowboy And Indian Museum Quality Replica Wear

817 S Austin Ave, Georgetown, Texas 78626 Phone: 512-864-2081

HUGE ONLINE WEB SITE! www.indianvillagemall.com

Authentic Old West Clothing For Reenactments, TV And Movie Set Production

Special Head · To · Toe Outfits

Wyatt Earp · John Wayne · Clint Eastwood · Lone Ranger · Tonto · Davy Crockett ·

- · Outfits · Shirts · Pants · Vests · Dress Vests · Hats · Gun Belts ·
  - · Long Coats · Ties · Scarfs · Blazers · Boots · Watches ·
  - · Belts · Guns · Ponchos · Spurs · Chaps · Boot Chains ·
    - · Dusters · Badges · Suspenders · Indian · Ladies ·
    - · Moccasins · Coats · Hat Bands · Decor · Jewelry ·

www.indianvillagemall.com

The Stampede at South River GEORGIA STATE CHAMPIONSHIP and the All Around Cowboy Challenge

By Fast Eddie, SASS #76308

onyers, GA. The Stampede at South River was sponsored by Jimmy Spurs, SASS #65014, of "Cowboy Gun Works" and held at the South River Gun Club, by the South River Shootists, which is about 45 minutes east of Atlanta. South River has a cowboy town, 25 action shooting bays, trap and skeet fields, bullseye, and rifle ranges. There are 54 camping spaces with 110v/25a/50a service and water hookups.

Thursday, side match day, started off with a "Women's Only" shooting clinic, sponsored by the Doily Gang, hosted by World Champions, Shamrock Sadie, SASS #78551, and Slick's Sharp Shooter, SASS #77967. The Georgia State Black Powder

John Taffin

Championship was followed by the Speed Side Match events, along with a Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> Match and a Three-Stage Warn Up Match.

Friday's clear skies welcomed two flights starting an to take advantage of its 3200-square-foot ultra-modern clubhouse. The clubhouse seats more than 80 people, with a full kitchen facility and a Pro Shop. After the last two stages of the day, the Couples and Team Side Match events were held.

Friday night's "Dinner at the Range" included a full Barbeque Dinner prepared on site, along with presentations of the State Black Powder Championship and Side Match awards

Saturday had a threat of rain, and the decision was made to shoot straight through and miss the possibility of afternoon thunderstorms. With the rain avoided, the last five stages went off without a hitch. With the shooting done for the day, it was time to put up the shootin' irons, get some lunch, roam the vendor area, and compare notes on how we shot.

The Saturday Night Banquet was at Cameron Hall, a short drive from the host hotel. The evening started with drinks and more stories of our shooting exploits. The din-

(Continued on next page)

-Bob Boze Bell

THE STAMPEDE AT SOUTH RIVER • (Georgia State Championship and the All Around Cowboy Challenge)

(Continued from previous page)

ner consisted of rib eye steak with bourbon steak sauce, grilled chicken breast, garlic mashed potatoes, sautéed green beans, garden salad, and rolls, with desert of cheese cake, peach cobbler and lemon pound cake.

The awards were started, with the giving away of the door prizes donated by our match sponsors, Cowboy Gun Works, Big Gun Armory II, Page Knives, Purdy Gear, Slick's Magic Guns, and Gift Certificates from SASS Mercantile. With the clean shooters acknowledged, belt buckles given to State Champions and Category Winners, and the Top 20 pins awarded. Then the All Around Cowboys all gathered to take a shot of some fine Bulleit Bourbon, > donated to the winner, by Bill Bonney, SASS #68967.

> The "Shoot within the Shoot" was an "All Around Cowboy" Challenge. Well, as it sometimes happens, the light-hearted insults, slung back and forth between rival shooters can produce unintended results. Such was the case in the creation of the All Around Cowboy and Cowgirl (AAC) category, run for the first time anywhere, at the Georgia State Championship. Santa Fe River Stan, SASS #36999, and Dang-It-Dan, SASS #13202, got into one of their verbal contests on The Wire and Dan challenged Stan to a "real" shooting match using a variety of SASS shooting styles and equipment. The idea was to find out who was really the best "all around" shooter, not just in one category. The rules were such:

All contestants had to adhere to the dress requirements of Classic Cowboy. Contestants had to use a double barrel shotgun on at least four stages and a 97 or 87 on at least four stages. The main match would consist of shooting two stages "Traditional" style, two Gunfighter, two Duelist, and two using Black Powder propellant. The remaining two stages would be something new... "Freestyle."

Freestyle is a whole new twist. A Freestyle stage allows the shooter to stoke his shotgun with up to four rounds and stage it. In addition, the shooter may run the stage as they see fit without regard to the actual written scenario as long as they don't end with the rifle... AND, the sequences are "total round count." For example, if the stage called for the shooter to shoot the stage right to left and engage the targets in a 2-1-2 sweep twice, the Freestyle shooter could run it left to right and shoot the targets in a 4-2-4 sweep only once. This gave the shooter the maximum flexibility to showcase their speed and skill. The contestants were really excited to shoot those stages and they couldn't wait to pick up that '97 and whale away.

Since the Freestyle stages were not run in the same way (Continued on page 28)

THE STAMPEDE AT SOUTH RIVER • (Georgia State Championship and the All Around Cowboy Challenge)

(Continued from page 27)

everyone else was required to shoot them, The ACC removed themselves from the overall placement in the main match. As such, AAC contestants were competing in their own match, the winners of which would receive a custom made belt buckle.

When the AAC category was first discussed and approved, it was announced it on The Wire. We were expecting maybe four or five shooters. What we got was a big surprise—13 Cowboys and three Cowgirls all signed up in AAC. It was a real treat to watch them all shoot in the various styles and to try to master some of the techniques that we take for granted (Dang-It-Dan commented, "Duelist was way harder than Gunfighter"). The real shocker was that some of the best shooters in the Southeast signed up in AAC. Red River Ray, SASS #33254, was asked why he shot AAC and he responded that it was a way to break up the routine and made him really think about the different techniques and the strategy of which shotgun to use on which stage.

Dang-It-Dan said it best: "Clearly the AAC category offered a chance to 'scratch an itch,' to a select group of hardcore cowboys and cowgirls. I was very appreciative to the Match Directors and officials that allowed us to step out of our usual categories and challenge ourselves like Congratulations are due to my buds, Santa Fe River Stan and Shamrock Sadie for winning All Around Cowboy and Cowgirl. It was a blast!"

Sunday morning brought Cowboy Church, followed by the Man on Man Shoot Off. True to a long standing Georgia tradition, the shoot off is open to all shooters. After that, individual man on man challenges were made, and the fun continued.

As usual the Shooters have the final word:

Bulls Head Bill, SASS #33692 – "The 2014 Georgia State Championship at South River Gun Club was Terrific!"

Arcadia Outlaw, SASS #71385 – "First off I'm glad there is a match at this awe-

(Continued on next page)

THE STAMPEDE AT SOUTH RIVER •

(Georgia State Championship and the All Around Cowboy Challenge)

(Continued from previous page)

some Facility, probably one of the finest in the Southeast. The match was a good one for sure!"

Marauder, SASS #13056 – "It was a really fun match with great friends and competitors!"

Colonel Dan, SASS #24025 – "We thoroughly enjoyed ourselves and the hospitality could not have been better."

Sue Render, SASS #87925 – "Thank you to the Georgia crew who worked hard to put on a fun match!"

(Continued on page 30)

Blackhawk Henry

Side Match Winners

Buckaroo and Buckerette

Georgia's Phantom Rider and Lil' Bit E. Miss

Couples Side Match

Presitdigitator and Slick's Sharp Shooter

Speed Dictel

| Speed I is  | 101           |    |
|-------------|----------------------|----|
| Buckaroo    | Kellraiser           |    |
|             | SASS #98703          | TN |
| Duelist     | Dutch Coroner |    |
| Gunfighter  | Dang-It-Dan          |    |
| (tie)       | and Koda Joe         |    |
|             | SASS #89807          | GA |
| Traditional | l Prestidigitator    |    |
|             | SASS #52251          | TN |
|             |                      |    |

Shamrock Sadie L Gunfighter Shamrock Sadie

L Traditional Shamrock Sadie

Speed Rifle

L Duelist

Man Santa Fe River Stan

FL

Speed Rifle

Shamrock Sadie Lady

Speed Shotgun

|          | SASS #98144          | GA |
|----------|----------------------|----|
| Hammered |                      |    |
| SXS      | Dutch Coroner |    |
| L SxS    | Shamrock Sadie       |    |
| 1897     | Two Gun Tuco         |    |
| L 1897   | Dang It's Darlin     |    |
|          | SASS #17502          | FL |

Team Side Match

Blackhawk Henry, Prestidigitator, Slick's Sharp Shooter

Top Gun Shoot Off

Buckaroo Georgia's Phantom Rider Lady Slick's Sharp Shooter Cowboy Junky Man SASS #30851 SC

THE STAMPEDE AT SOUTH RIVER • (Georgia State Championship and the All Around Cowboy Challenge)

(Continued from page 29)

Most Wanted, SASS #78296 – "Had a lot of fun at the shoot and it's always fun to see our southern friends."

Santa Fe River Stan – "A big Thank You to all involved for giving up you time and expending all the effort that you did, so my family and friends could come together and make memories that we will keep with us forever."

I would like to thank everyone that took time to participate in the Georgia State Championship. See ya down the trail, and hopefully at the "Stampede at South River" 2015 Georgia State Championship, May 14-17.

Georgia State Wild Bunch™ Winners

L Modern Sassy Teton Lady
SASS #47525 FL
L Traditional Foxy Filly GA
Modern Navajo Kid
SASS #5656 FL
Traditional Cardboard Cowboy

SASS #74358 GA

|                   | WINNERS           | Duelist      | Risin' Outlaw    |    | L 49'er      | Maggie Darlin'  |    | S Senior   | Pecos Pete      |     |
|-------------------|-------------------|--------------|------------------|----|--------------|-----------------|----|------------|-----------------|-----|
| 49'er             | Delta Glen        |              | SASS #64767      | SC |              | SASS #18724     | GA |            | SASS #16437     | NC  |
|                   | SASS #39197 F     | L            | Pale Ale Rider   |    | LBW          | Sass E. Miss    |    |            | Purly           |     |
| Fast Eddie        | GA                |              | SASS #92804      | GA |              | SASS #78893     | GA |            | SASS #57438     | GA  |
| Buckaroo          | Georgia's Phantom | E Statesman  | Trail Bandit     |    | L Duelist    | Mae Berry       |    | SS Duelist | Amaduelist      |     |
|                   | Rider             |              | SASS #52426      | SC |              | SASS #90835     | TN |            | SASS #28092     | FL  |
|                   | SASS #98146 G     | A            | McKenzie River   |    | LFC          | Bronco Lady     |    |            | D.Q. Jones      |     |
| Buckarette        | Lil' Bit E. Miss  |              | Drifter          |    |              | SASS #85765     | FL |            | SASS #37116     | GA  |
|                   | SASS #96759 G     | A            | SASS #74138      | GA | L Senior     | Savannah Belle  |    | Wrangler   | Arcadia Outlaw  | FL  |
| B Western         | Blackhawk Henry   | Frontiersman | Amarillo Rattler |    |              | SASS #31452     | FL |            | Wabash Valley S | lim |
|                   | SASS #98144 G     | A            | SASS #68423      | FL | L Wrangler   | Sue Render      | SC |            | SASS #71092     | GA  |
| Cattle Baron      | Ruff Edge         |              | Georgia Slick    |    |              | Foxy Filly      |    | Young Gun  | Rayson Kane     |     |
|                   | SASS #20553 G     | A            | SASS #20382      | GA |              | SASS #74357     | GA |            | SASS #58238     | GA  |
| Classic C         | Dutch Coroner     | FC           |                  |    | Pioneer      | Latonka         |    | Y Gun Girl | Kalamity Kae    |     |
|                   | SASS #82128 V     | A Gunfighter | Fire N. Ballback |    |              | SASS #67424     | FL |            | SASS #79716     | FL  |
| Bucky Busc        | adero             |              | SASS #60185      | KY |              | Loose Trigger   |    |            |                 |     |
|                   | SASS #73085 G     | A Grande     |                  |    |              | SASS #35970     | GA | All Around |                 |     |
| Cowboy            | Two Gun Tuco      | Dame         | Toots            |    | Senior       | Ozark Azz       |    | Cowboy     | Santa Fe River  |     |
|                   | SASS #78297 M     | D            | SASS #78164      | GA |              | SASS #18273     | GA |            | Stan            | FL  |
| Hurricane Charlie |                   | Gunfighter   | J.B. Sledge      |    | S Duelist    | No Limit        |    | All Around |                 |     |
|                   | SASS #90225 G     | A            | SASS #82229      | PA |              | SASS #58857     | GA | Cowgirl    | Shamrock Sadie  | SC  |
| Cowgirl           | Slick's Sharp     |              | Bluff            |    | S Gunfighter | Cassalong Hopic | ly |            |                 |     |
|                   | Shooter G         | A            | SASS #28259      | GA |              | SASS #39703     | GA |            |                 |     |

EAS'DERN SHORE ROUND-UP

By Gray Warhorse, SASS #82658

The Roundup Committee:

Teton Tracy, Cactus Whiskey, SASS #75905, South Paw Sadie, Delaware Coop, Hazel Pepper, SASS #49662, Deacon Will, SASS #24170, Wyoming Schoolmarm, SASS #32070, Bonnie B Good, and Jingles Jerr, SASS #5463. (Vaquero Dan, SASS #31330, not pictured.)

udlersville, MD. The Eas'dern Shore Round-Up was held on the first weekend of May 2014, at the Delmarva Sportsman Association located in Maryland and was actually the SASS Delaware State Championship Match. (Now, if you can get your head around the Delaware State Match being held in Maryland, let's go on.) As the start of the match was approaching, the weather MAY 2 - 4,2014 was a bit less than desirable thanks to the heavy "moisture" falling from the sky. For a while, the match committee was considering the possible need to build rafts for the shooting positions and obtain canoes for target resetting. One wag was heard to say he saw a large number of different species of animals lining up two-by-two near his waterfront! Fortunately, the deluge stopped by mid-week and the range had a chance to dry out, although there were still some soggy places that hampered setup a bit. As it turned out, the weather was quite lovely for both setup and the rest of the match. All breathed a collective sigh of relief, especially our match director, Teton Tracy, SASS #40592.

There is an enormous amount of time and effort that goes into preparing for a major match. I (Continued on next page)

"blindsided" with the Too Dang Frank Award. She believed Bonnie B Good, SASS #27711, was receiving it. How they kept that wonderful surprise from Sadie and Teton Tracy is beyond us.

Eas'dern Shore Round-Up ...

(Continued from previous page)

Sherlock Doc, SASS #97868 shoots the first stage of his first match through the gate of Fort Kilby as his "advisors" stand by.

Cool Hand Lee spotting hits on the long-range rifle side match. In the background, Marshlan, SASS #22743, is giving instructions on the long-range pistol match.

cannot say enough about the excellent job done by the match committee and other volunteers that contributed to this match. In particular, Delaware Coop, SASS #69691 our set designer and builder did a fantastic job on the stage props, in many cases single-handedly building them. Several different groups and individuals use the range, so we do not have the luxury of leaving props and stages permanently set up on the range. Therefore, all the props had to be constructed to be lightweight and designed to be readily moveable. Not only did they have to be set up on the day before the start of the match, but also several had to be changed between the first and second day of the main match. If you haven't been directly involved in something like this, it is harder than it sounds.

The day of the side matches arrived with gorgeous sunshine and pleasant temperatures. Registration and the RO Course started at 0900. The side matches kicked off at 1200 and ran until 1600 (4 p.m. to you civilians). The remaining vendors also rolled in during that time until we had the full contingent. It soon became clear that there was more shooting off the mouth going on than there was shooting hardware. Well, yeah! Isn't that one of the big reasons we all come to these matches? As some of the campers arrived and set up, they soon became the focal point of many shoot-off-the-mouth contests with many stories told, most not verifiable.

Gray Warhorse, SASS #82658 Gunpowder John, SASS #78053 and Hopalong Jim, SASS #71835, seem very intent on something but with these pardners, you can never be too sure!

The first main match day arrived with a repeat of the gorgeous weather and the hordes started to pour in. Our volunteer waddies directed traffic. Soon there was a wide assortment of nefarious-looking characters milling around, visiting vendors, or just waiting for the "starting gun" to sound off. Aside from the usual suspects from Maryland and Delaware, we had competitors troop in from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, New York, Connecticut and even one lone straggler from far away Massachusetts.

(Continued on page 34)

Eas'dern Shore Round-Up....

(Continued from page 33)

Saturday, this prop was a hospital. On Sunday, it became a church, one of Delaware Coop's masterpieces.

Then, at 0930, match director, Teton Tracy, sauntered into the clearing and sounded assembly. After the Pledge of Allegiance, followed by a blessing by Corkscrew Tom, SASS #68972, Teton read the match rules, introduced the leaders of the four posses, and we were off!

The main theme of the match was "Cowboys and Big Whiskey, Posse Leader for posse one, gave all the posse members yellow armbands to wear. All weekend you could hear the chants of "posse one rules!" (You can also see the hospital that became the church on Sunday in the background.)

Angels," with what I consider to be a couple of sub-themes. The sub-theme of the first five stages was "Famous Women of the West" and that of the last five was "Famous Men of the West." Each stage had a scenario and starting phrase to go with that theme. It wasn't clear whether it was the men or women who got the bigger kick out of the concepts but all enjoyed them.

We had barely started shooting when a camera crew from WBOC Outdoors, Delmarva, showed up to film the event. Apparently they were quite interested and we just (Continued on next page)

Eas'dern Shore Round-Up . . . .

(Continued from previous page)

Luck of the Draw Winners -(L-R)Big Whiskey [shotgun], Kuz [rifle], Teton Tracy [pistol].

Cool Hand Lee, Top Delaware Man and DE 49'r Champ; Southpaw Sadie, Top Delaware Lady & DE Lady Senior champ; Wild Bill Diamond, Overall Match Winner.

might have a convert or two to Cowboy Action Shooting<sup>TM</sup> from that crew. Here's the link for WBOC and the short video they made from the match:

http://www.wboc.com/category/257471/outdoorsdel marva Select Episode 183. Enjoy!

As the day wore on and the time for the BBQ approached, one of our waddies made a startling discovery the hard way. While setting up chairs under the tent where the BBQ was to be held, he sat down in one of the chairs whose legs promptly sank more than six inches into the soggy turf.

Marshlan times Corkscrew Tom as he makes clouds. The rest of the posse was hoping for a good breeze.

(Remember the deluge noted from earlier in the week?) A quick testing of several more areas under the tent revealed the same problem. Yikes! What do we do now coach?

There was no place where the tent could be moved but, fortunately, the Pistol Range had a long covered area that provided a shaded place to which we could move the tables and chairs. Several "volunteers" were shanghaied to move tables and chairs and soon we were back in business, just in time for the caterer to set up before the hungry horde arrived. Somehow it all worked out without a visible hitch, as did the presentation of all 14 awards for the side matches to the top Lady, Man and Buckaroo in each division. (See http://www.dsarange.com/Roundup.htm for Side Match and Main Match awards.)

It's always fun to see old friends and make new ones. Pictured are Jesse's Sister, SASS #82105, Sidesaddle Sue, SASS #73023, Shoulda Married Money, SASS #67920, Shop Along Sassy, SASS #67795, Black Hills Barb, SASS #34171, and Happy Valley Harlot, SASS #84435.

The weather on Sunday was a repeat of the glorious day on Saturday. Cowboy Church was held at 0800 and the survivors then trooped off to begin shooting the remaining stages, starting at 0900. The range soon resounded to a rapid series of bangs and clangs with only a small number of stealth bullets fired.

Upon conclusion of the last match stage, something new was added, a "Luck of the Draw Team Shoot." Those shooters wanting to participate put their nametags into a hat to be drawn out for team selection and the teams were selected in sequence. First name drawn for each team was (Continued on page 36)

Eas'dern Shore Round-Up ..._

(Continued from page 35)

Teton Tracy, Match Director, reads the match rules and introduces posse leaders before the start of the main match.

the pistol shooter. Second name was the rifle shooter. Third name got to display proficiency with a shotgun of the shooter's choice. Soon all the teams were established and the rules were announced. All team members had to stand behind a line. At the buzzer, the pistol shooter stepped over the line to the firing position and sent 10 rounds downrange with the proverbial. When finished, the pistol shooter holstered stepping back over the line. Then the rifle shooter sauntered to the firing position and emptied his rifle, returning back over the line before the shotgun shooter was released to step up to the firing line. As soon as the shotgunner downed all targets or ran out of ammo, the team time was recorded and the next team stepped up to the line.

With the final round fired, it didn't take long to determine that the team composed of Teton Tracy (pistol), Kuz, SASS #84149 (rifle), and Big Whiskey, SASS #73829 (shotgun), was the clear winner and all were solemnly awarded bragging rights. (What? You thought they would get trophies just for having fun? Actually, each of them did receive a nice award plaque. Congratulations!)

Corkscrew Tom and Gen. Lew Wallace, SASS #51250 model their sartorial splendor prior to the start of the main match.

With a flurry of activity, volunteers began the breakdown and removal of the sets, props and targets while others started to gather at the array of chairs and tables set under the Pistol Range shelter to prepare for the awards ceremony. Soon the match scorekeepers had completed the tabulations and were ready for the presentations. The cleanup crew was called in (temporarily) and the honors commenced.

Looks like Sundown Charlie, SASS#61859 got a little early start on the day. The bottle is nearly empty now! Marshlan looks on with trepidation!

The overall match winner was Wild Bill Diamond, SASS #19375; the Men's Delaware State Champion was (Continued on next page)

Eas'dern Shore Round-Up ..._

(Continued from previous page)

Cool Hand Lee, SASS #81764; and the Ladies' Delaware State Champion was South Paw Sadie, SASS #49471. There were only four Clean Match awards. They went to Hand Cannon, SASS #60485; Pecos Pay, SASS #36327; Sunshine Senorita, SASS #93698; and Wild Wiz, SASS #75043. The Spirit of the Game Award deservedly went to Delaware Coop. Then there was a surprise award. Although not directly associated with the Round-Up, the Too Dang Frank Award was presented. This award was established to pay tribute to Too Dang Frank, SASS #31985, cofounder of the Eas'dern Shore Renegades, who crossed the rainbow bridge March 24, 2008. This year it went to our own Southpaw Sadie for outstanding efforts and contributions to both the club and support of the assorted matches. Both she and husband, Teton Tracy, were caught totally by surprise, as they had no hint that it was coming.

Everyone had a good time and there were quite a few (Continued on page 38)

Slash Eight, SASS #51146, co-founder of the Eas'dern Shore Renegades, and his wife, Betty, strike a pose in front of some of the "scenery." Although not shooting these days, he is very supportive of the Club.

Eas'dern Shore Round-Up....

(Continued from page 37)

favorable comments on the stages and supporting props throughout the match. Kudos to the Match Committee and the wide range of volunteers, without whom an event like Corkscrew Tom asks the blessing before the start of the main match.

Although the deluge stopped a day ago, setup of the props is still a bit on the soggy side as the range is still draining.

this, simply could not take place. Oh, yeah. We did have a set of buzzards surveying the scene from the barricade between the Rifle and Pistol Ranges but all they got to do was observe. There were no casualties other than to assorted hot dogs, hamburgers and other fare provided by our food vendor, the Vietnam Veterans, Kent Co., Delaware, Chapter 850.

Please mark your calendars for May 1-3, 2015, for the next Delaware State Championship Match of Cowboy Action Shooting at the Eas'dern Shore Round-Up. ...

HELL ON THE BORDER

By Back Forty, SASS #23910 Photos by Back Forty

Tort Smith, AR. The year was 1875. Judge Isaac Parker had just appointed Bass Reeves to the position of Deputy Marshal of Indian Territory. Reeves would be one of the first African-Americans to gain this status.

A while later, Reeves placed an order with a hardware store out of St. Louis for a new Colt Single Action .45 revolver. When it arrived, he now carried a brace of Colt Single Actions, worn butt forward, a Winchester rifle and a sawed off double barrel shotgun carried in a saddle scabbard. Over the years, he would lead a posse of several men that would capture notorious outlaws who eventually would meet their maker at the hands of Judge Parker.

Wait – does this sound familiar? Fastforward 139 years – two revolvers, a rifle and a shotgun, on a posse, just across the river from Fort Smith, Arkansas. Well, it could only be the Hell on the Border shootout at the Old Fort Gun Club. The shoot was hosted by the Judge Parker's Marshals and was held Saturday, March 14, 2014.

Co-match-directors Naildriver, SASS #59139, and Just Charlie, SASS #5153, picked a perfect weather day as more than 115 shooters came out for the second annual shoot on the banks of the Arkansas River. The single day match consisted of seven fast and furious stages of quick thinking, maximum rounds and fancy

(Continued on next page)

Smokeless Reloading Services CALL for Other Loads

GUNFIRE ARMS & AMMUNITION

45LC/200gr LRNFP- $180/500 (Wild Bunch Rifle)

.45LC/200gr LRNFP- $180/500 (Low Recoil) .45LC/160gr LRNFP- $170/500 (X-Low Recoil)

.38Spl/120gr LFP Marlin Long- $140/500 (Low Recoil)

38Spl/120gr LFP- $140/500 (Low Recoil)

45ACP/230gr LRN- $190/500 (Wild Bunch) (Due to changing markets, all prices subject to change without notice)

561×312×9075

Kid Celero #69273

* CAS ACTION WORK *

Ruger Short-Stroke Specialists

1873/66 Short-Stroke 1897 CAS Action Work SxS CAS Action Work

Fast turnaround w/calendar appointment

www.GunfireArms.com

BY COWBOYS, FOR COWBOYS

Hell on the Border 2014.

(Continued from previous page)

AR

SASS #53321

footwork. However, overall match winner CS Brady, SASS #63699, was up to the task by shooting a clean match and edging out second place winner Creek County Kid, SASS #89945, by just over two seconds.

Stage 1, the Church, consisted of four revolver targets engaged at least twice, knockdown and steel plate > rifle targets and four knockdown shotgun targets. Holy Smoke Harmon, SASS #84590, won the stage with a 21.23-second time.

> Stage 2, the Corral, really made you get up and move with two identical revolver and rifle sweeps, and six shotgun targets engaged from three different locations. Creek County Kid blistered the stage in 20.16 seconds.

> Stage 3, the Gallows, is an exact copy of the one used by Judge Parker. The combination revolver/rifle targets consisted of seven hanging targets in three rows: top row of three targets, one target in the second row, positioned in the middle and a bottom row of three targets. The stage called for single tapping the odd number targets and double tapping the even number targets, and finishing with four knockdowns. No time to stop and think, just let 'er rip, which is exactly what CS Brady did, blazing through the stage in 17.00 seconds flat.

(Continued on page 42)

Hell on the Border 2014 . . .

(Continued from page 41)

Stage 4, the Wagon was "run and gun" at its finest, with three different shooting positions. Three revolver targets and three rifle targets called for the shooter to engage the center target with a double tap and then sweep left to right twice, and finish up with four shotgun knockdowns. CS Brady took top honors again with an 18.18 time.

Stage 5, Ms. Laura's, is a replica of the original Ms. Laura's sporting house located in Ft. Smith. On this stage, a miss was a good thing. How, you ask? A large round steel target with a cutout of the state of Arkansas had the shooters shooting through the cutout area. Coupled with six plus shotgun, it was a real "take your breath away" stage. Again, CS Brady placed first by ripping through the stage in 19.33 seconds.

Stage 6, the Jail, provided the shooter with a sixtarget plate rack for two revolvers, with a dump target for remaining rounds. Shooters finished up with a Nevada sweep on four rifle targets and four shotgun knockdowns. CS Brady made it four in a row with a time of 18.67.

"The Best in Cowboy Guns!"  $\star\star\star\star$ REGULAR: 530 SASS SPECIAL: \$46000 .357Mag, 44/40, 45LC EMF's 1873 Great Western II "Californian" is manufactured by F.LLI PIETTA in Italy. These guns teature hammer forged steel barrels and frames that are drop forged and then CNC machined. Additionally, they have wider rear and larger front sights for faster sight acquisition. Just like the original Colts, these revolvers have a firing pin in the hammer and casehardened frames. This combination of traditional aesthetics with the best modern technology makes the Great Western II the most sought after, durable and reliable single action revolver on the market today. SULAR: 5610 .357Mag, 44/40, 45LC 5 1/2" OR 7 1/2" BARREL Named the SASS Product of the Year in 2008, the "Alchimista" combines the traditional GWII 1873 frame with the 1860 Army Grip. It features a wider, set-back competition trigger and checkered walnut grips. SAVE EVEN MORE ON OUR DINGS & DENTS ORDER DESK (800) 430-1310 1900 E. Warner Ave., Suite 1-D, Santa Ana, California 92705

Stage 7, the final stage, at the Bar, really made you bear down by having to engage a rifle target with a revolver. Ain't Dunit, SASS #71048, had it figured out and blazed through the stage with a 17.96-second winning time.

After the match, the shooters gathered under a big tent to enjoy an excellent meal, topped off with a Dutch oven cobbler made by the local Boy Scout troop. Scores were tallied and top honors went to CS Brady, men's overall winner, and Kiamichi Queen, SASS #26033, ladies' overall winner.

Cowboy Action Shooting<sup>TM</sup> is just one of the shooting (Continued on next page)

Hell on the Border 2014...

(Continued from previous page)

competitions offered by the Old Fort Gun Club, as IDPA and USPSA are also shot on the site. The Judge Parker's Marshals are well represented on the board of directors by Long White Dog, SASS #57057, who has been a member of the club for more than 30 years. The facility is a great place to shoot, and the Judge Parker's Marshals are to be commended for a great match. Wouldn't it have been great to have Bass Reeves and his posse show up to shoot with us? ...

SHOOTIN'OUR WAY ACROSS AMERICA West Virginia

By Tennessee Tall, SASS Life/Regulator #49245, and Rio Drifter, SASS Life/Regulator #49244

West Virginia to shoot with the Kanawha (Can-a-waa) Valley Regulators. In Eleanor the Putnam County Gun Club has many shooting disciplines and fully embraces Cowboy Action Shooting<sup>TM</sup>. The Putnam County Park boasts a swimming pool, numerous ball fields, fairgrounds, rifle ranges, pistol ranges, the cowboy ranges and long-range field. Deer, raccoons, birds and squirrels shared the quiet range where we camped.

We found an impressive gun range on an exceptionally well-built cowboy town where we met Mullinville Man, SASS #92669, painting targets for the match. Eddie Rebel, SASS #52259, was quick to tell us that his wife, Pie, SASS #75817, was responsible for the construction of most of the buildings and artwork on site. Work was started in 2003 on Buffalo Flats cowboy town and continues today. You will find a depot, a saloon, a corral, (Continued on next page) a fort, mercantile, a bank, a covered pavilion to seat 50 to 100 cowboys, and numerous out buildings.

Shootin' Our Way Across America (West Virginia)

(Continued from previous page)

The Kanawha Valley Regulators welcomed us, and Captain Hook, SASS #5485, acted as our posse leader, allowing us to add West Virginia to our list as state number 38 shot. An average of 168 club members shoot on the banks of the Kanawah River.

Eleanor, West Virginia is a beautiful small town taking its name from Eleanor Roosevelt. As one of the cowboys told us: "It was one of her attempts at Socialism." The following is an excerpt from the history of the town: "In 1934, during perhaps the most desperate time in American history, the town of Eleanor (initially called Red House Farms), became one of three Subsistence Homesteads built in West Virginia under the Roosevelt Administration. A total of 150 families selected for the Town of Eleanor were offered a challenge and a chance for new life.

"The tract of land for the community comprises 2,200 acres [and cost] approximately $29 an acre. The site of the dwellings and the farmland, comprising about 800 acres, lies in a half-moon shaped valley. It is a setting of natural beauty. The straight edge lies along the banks of the Kanawha River and to the north the semi-circle is marked by sharp-sloped wooded hills. The roughly semicircle valley is from a quarter to three quarters of a mile wide and about a mile and a half long.

"Each house is on a plot of from three-quarters of an acre to an acre. The plot also provides for a barn, a chicken pen, a garden and a lawn with shrubbery. The houses are built chiefly of cinder blocks. Wood is used in the interior, but little on the exterior. The dwellings range from three to five rooms and are designed in several different basic styles. Their appearance is sturdy, comfortable, serviceable, economical, neat and architecturally well designed."

Eleanor today is well-maintained, noted as "One of the Cleanest Towns in America." A summer day there is typical of small town USA, lawn mowers humming, flowers hanging on the porch, swimming, ball games and picnics, a Norman Rockwell town to be proud of. Throw in Buffalo Flats cowboy town and shooting, what more could you want?

After our shoot we wandered over to the Gerald R. Freeman US Army Corps of Engineers Campground on Sutton Lake off I-79 Exit 67, well worth the 20-minute drive on Highway 15. A campground with a laundry, playground, drinking water, biking, basketball, dump, dumpsters, and electric sites on the lake for $10 per night using our Golden Age Passport. Fishing is the name of the game here with walleye, large and small mouth bass, catfish, brim and trout on the menu. We camped within six feet of the water, in a tree-shaded site where we watched the birds and the fish/fishermen to our heart's content. One of our neighbors told us of fishing on the lake, watching a black bear climbing the bank behind him. We found West Virginia to be diverse, friendly and beautiful.

Precision Bullets are swaged with certified 6/2 lead alloy. We then apply our unique dry-lube formula. This process completely encases the precision lead core. What does this mean for you? Safe for indoor ranges. No leading in the barrel. Fire more rounds downrange between cleanings. Load twice as long and twice as much before cleaning your dies. Less smoke since no messy wax lubricants.

Precision Bullets cost only a few dollars more than the cheapest cast lead bullets, but they give you jacketed bullet ballistics. Precision Bullets are clean, safe and accurate.

The tough coat protects the bullet from damage and is a natural lubricant. It keeps the bullet at tight factory dimensions and goes through the bore intact.

> That means no lead on your hands, no lead dust and no toxic fames.

Even long sessions at the loading bench or when shooting on indoor ranges. It means clean bands, clean guns, clean reloading dies - and clean als. And you get a builet which is highly uniform in weight and dimension.

FAMILY OWNED SINCE 1998

33112 CR 2142 • Kemp, Texas 75143 Voice 903.498.8451 Fax 903.498.8451 Visit Our New Website precisionbullets.com Email - bullet@precisionbullets.com

A QUARTER CENTURY CELEBRATION CODY WYOMING, JUNE (1)

By Grey Fox, SASS#223, Life, Regulator, Hall of Fame Inductee and Miss Mary Spencer, SASS #55147 Life, Regulator Photos by Lucky Bill, SASS #765 and Grey Fox

he Regional and State Championships for Wyoming are now held in Cheyenne rather than Cody. However, the enthusiasm for Cowboy Action Shooting<sup>TM</sup> has not diminished. On June 7, 2014, an intimate group of shootists convened in Cody to commemorate 25 years of Cowboy Action Shooting<sup>TM</sup>. The event was reminiscent of days gone by. Rather than heavy duty intense competition the participants were having fun, although

Some of the shootists during opening ceremonies.

Yakima Red being awarded the "Lucky Bill, you can't miss with a shotgun award."

Some cowboys & cowgirls at the Irma Hotel.

Winners Donk Cowboy SASS #89818 MT Duelist Noah Regrets WY E Statesman Hole Puncher SASS #50614 WY F Cartridge Phlegmboy Kid SASS #42413 MT FC Duelist Yakima Red WY Gunfighter Paradise Valley Kid WY SASS #13402 Junior Li'l Miss Dewdrop SASS #100729 MT L FC Lilly Blossom SASS #26517 MT L Senior Angel SASS #19622 MT L S Senior Six Gun Annie SASS #24322 WY L Wrangler Buckskin Lily WY Senior Homestake SASS #96289 MT S Duelist H. Muggins Taylor SASS #19621 MT Silver Joe Cross Senior WY SASS #13848

Yakima Red & Lilly Blossom doing a terpsichorean turn while Top Gun Buckskin Lily and runner up Noah Regrets look on.

winning was still an objective.

The match was a co-production of Colter's Hell Justice Committee and High Lonesome Drifters, organized by Yakima Red, SASS #13539, Joe Cross, SASS #13848, and Kerri Lynn, SASS #13849. The event was billed as "Skin that Smoke Wagon."

Yakima Red and Joe Cross inaugurated the festivities by receiving a SASS Flag from Grey Fox to mark the occasion. The shootists were off and running with enthusiasm and > good humor even though vying for Top Gun. There was a stage where a blank pistol and some cards were to be utilized but the pistol did not work! So, the shootists in good humor picked up the blank gun and said "Bang." No one was annoyed or dismayed. The

 ${f V}$ isit us at sassnet. ${f com}$

A Quarter Century Celebration . . .

(Continued from previous page)

Grey Fox presenting SASS flag to Joe Cross & Yakima Red.

event unfolded in a leisurely fashion.

After the last shot was fired the merry little band of cowboys and cowgirls adjourned to the Irma Hotel to dine in Old West style, thrilling the tourists with their frontier finery.

Top Gun for the event was Buckskin Lily, SASS #51707.

Runner up was her spouse, Noah Regrets, SASS #51706.

WINTER RANGE 2014

SASS National Championship of Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> Action Shooting

By Larsen E. Pettifogger, SASS #32933 Life/Regulator
Photos by Deadeye Al, SASS #26454, Larsen E. Pettifogger, Quigley Photography

"Is that my age or my time?"

here are two major shooting sports under the SASS umbrella. The first is what comes to mind when many people think about the "Single Action Shooting Society." These are the Cowboy Action Shooters<sup>TM</sup>, shooting single action revolvers and emulating the American West of the latter half of the Nineteenth Century. Think Dodge City, Wyatt Earp, and the James Gang. But, there are "single actions" other than revolvers, such as the Colt Model 1911. Those who enjoy the second shooting sport under the SASS umbrella are the Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> Shooters. They try to emulate the early (pre-World War I) years of the Twentieth Century. Think, the Mexican Border Wars (the most famous skirmish being in Columbus, New Attack Pancho Villa on this?

Mexico in 1916), Blackjack Pershing, Poncho Villa, and George Patton in a 1915 Dodge automobile leading

There's no rule that says you have to wear shoes.

the first mechanized attack in United States history.

The early years of the Twentieth Century were an (Continued on next page)

Winter Range 2014 • SASS National Championship of Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> Action Shooting

(Continued from previous page)

sport. Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> has been around long enough that it is time to quit referring to it as new and to start focusing on what it has matured into. This maturity was on display at Winter Range 2014. First, let's go through some general principles of Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> shooting. Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> is intended to be a MAJOR caliber match, meaning not only (Continued on page 50) amazing period in American History. The old west was still a vivid first hand experience for many people. Yet, it was a period of unprecedented technological development. In the span of just a decade, people moved from horses to automobiles, from dreams of flight to operational airplanes, from black powder mechanically operated revolvers and rifles to smokeless powder, machine guns, and semi-automatic pistols. Clothing also varied from "cowboy" to "modern" attire. At any large gathering you would see it all; the remnants of the cowboy era with people still shooting black powder rifles, shotguns, and revolvers, alongside people shooting 1911 pistols and Krag and Springfield rifles. This is the era of the Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> shooter.

In the past, many articles about Wild Bunch™ have frequently mentioned that it is the newest SASS are the guns supposed to be big bores, but the ammunition to be shot is also at a much higher power factor than cowboy ammunition. This means the only handgun allowed in Wild Bunch is the .45 Colt 1911 or clones (no 9mm, .38 Super, etc.) and rifles must be at least .40 caliber. Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> ammunition must be a minimum of 150 power factor vs. 60 power factor for cowboy ammunition.

Winter Range 2014 • SASS National Championship of Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> Action Shooting

(Continued from page 49)

Next, the courses of fire are intended to test both speed and accuracy. Targets are frequently smaller and set at greater distances than the targets at a typical cowboy match. Since the ammunition is more powerful, Wild Bunch™ matches tend to use a larger number of reactive targets than seen at a cowboy match. Wild Bunch™ stages also typically require the firing of many more rounds of ammunition than cowboy stages. Finally, only pump action shotguns may be used in Wild Bunch™, i.e., Winchester Model 12s, 97s, and the 93/97, and they are staged with the magazines fully loaded. So, how did it all come together at Winter Range 2014?

There were no DQ's given for underpowered ammunition. At the first Winter Range Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> National Championship many shooters forgot that the 150 power factor applies to their pistol AND rifle ammunition. Many were using their standard cowboy rifle ammunition and failed the chronograph test. This year the minimum power factor recorded was 163 and the maximum 210. Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> shotguns are staged with the magazine loaded but with the hammer down on an empty chamber. This was easy to see with outside hammer shotguns. However, when the Model 12 was approved for Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> use, the only way to determine if the hammer was down was for the timer operator to watch as the shooter pulled the trigger on the firing line. If it clicked the shooter got a stage DQ. This year for the first time, no one got a SDQ for staging a cocked Model 12.

The match itself consisted of ten challenging stages with onthird of the targets set close, one-third set at medium distances, and one-third using small and/or more distant targets. And, what is some of the advice from the shooters and match director to new Winter Range Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> shooters?

Make sure your ammunition meets power factor. Make sure your equipment, magazines and ammo WORK before getting to Winter Range. Practice on smaller targets. To do well at a large Wild Bunch™ match, a shooter should be able to consistently hit a four-inch round plate at seven to nine yards. And, remember to aim! Wild Bunch™ matches are not bulls-eye matches; however, they are also not cowboy matches where the targets are often close enough that point shooting is sufficient to hit the targets.

(Continued on next page)

WINNERS

Half-A-Hand Henri L Modern SASS #9727 NM L Traditional Texas Tiger SASS #74829 NM Modern Boggus Deal SASS #64218 NM Traditional Samuel B. Carpenter SASS #34043 Norway

Overall

Lady Half-A-Hand-Henri Man Boggus Deal

Winter Range 2014 • SASS National Championship of Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> Action Shooting

(Continued from previous page)

This year overall scores continued to improve. However, there were no clean matches!

So, what does the future hold for Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> shooting? It continues to evolve and grow. For example, in future matches TOs and spotters will be watching more closely to make sure shooters are not moving with their finger in the trigger guard. People at smaller ranges who like shooting three-gun matches with traditional black guns but are limited because they don't have a 200- or 300-yard range will start looking at Wild Bunch™. Three guns can be shot, but a 50-yard bay is plenty deep enough. Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> will also appeal to those three-gun shooters who don't like shooting prone or ducking under barricades.

The awards given out at Winter Range are designed to fit the Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> motif with the major awards shaped like a .45 and newly designed bronze belt buckles for 2014. Sturm, Ruger & Co. is the Winter Range Event Sponsor and Wild West Mercantile is the Wild Bunch<sup>TM</sup> match sponsor. The Winter Range SASS National Championship of Wild Bunch™ Action shooting for 2015 will take place on February 23 and 24. See you there!!!

SPATCHES FROM MP BAYLO

Loading .38-55 on a Dillon XL650

By Captain George Baylor, SASS Life/Regulator #24287

ASS shooters use .38-55 Winchester for three matches, Plainsman, Rifle Caliber Lever Action Rifle Long Range, and Black Powder Single Shot Long Range. It is an obsolete cartridge. It was the black powder daddy of the .30-30 Winchester. The base is essentially the same, but it is straight wall rather than bottleneck.

Most people load it in single-stage presses. However, I'm spoiled. I've been reloading for more than 30 years and never owned a single stage press. I shoot a lot, so I try to use efficient machines. I loaded .38-broke. RCBS always sent me the needed parts, and I got better with it. This only meant it broke in different places. And, compared to my other machines, the Dillon XL650 and SL900, it was slow.

Plainsman Matches

Plainsman uses single-shot rifles, percussion pistols, and double or '87 shotguns for shooting stages much like main match stages. It is shot in posses. Usually rifle targets are farther away than what is fashionable in main matches. I have been to matches with 200-yard buffalosized targets or 100yard clays on stands, Dillon XL650 set up for .38-55 Winchester.

RCBS Cowboy Dies.

but this is not the intent of Plainsman. Most contestants use rifles with sights like main match rifles. It is not a long-range match. It is an action match. Like the shotgun, the rifle starts empty and finishes empty. So loading and ejecting rounds quickly is key to doing well. That means practicing... a lot.

There's just one problem. Dillon doesn't make a caliber conversion kit for it. CAU-TIONARY NOTE: That statement and common sense indicate this is not a project for beginning reloaders, or, probably, reloaders new to the Dillon XL650.

They do make a .30-30 conversion kit (Part #21112), so the bottom end is covered.

We'll get to the top in a minute. Dillon does not make dies for it.

RCBS Cowboy Dies

RCBS makes excellent dies in their Cowboy series. They're not just case hardened dies. Their dimensions vary from their normal .38-55 dies. They are designed for lead bullets. Other manufacturers make dies designed for jacketed bullets. Additionally, one of the most popular Plainsman rifles, the H & R Buffalo Classic, has a bigger bore. Buffalo Classic chambers are very tight, and Johnny Meadows used a chamber

The rounds are very tall and skinny. Here, the round at station 1 has not lined up.

(Continued from previous page)

reamer on mine enough to accept bullets big enough for the bore. My rifles need .380 diameter, not .376. (Your mileage may vary.)

After finessing, the round at station 1 is entering the die.

Station 1

This is a tall, thin case. The RCBS dies are not designed for progressive machines, so there is no gentle shoulder at the mouth of the decapping/sizing die to help guide the round into the die. This means that "finessing" the case into the die is necessary on almost every case—unless you want crushed cases.

But the full-length re-sizing die does an excellent job of re-sizing, making the brass Dillon does not make a .38-55 powder funnel. A .38/.357 powder funnel was used, requiring that the powder die be raised considerably to work properly.

easy to eject after firing.

Case Lubrication

These are steel dies. Cases MUST be lubed—and thoroughly so—before loading. I use Hornady One-

(Continued on page 54)

PIONEER GUN WORKS

~SPECIALIZING IN MODEL 1873 & 1866 RIFLES AND PARTS~

Competition Parts For Winchester & Uberti Rifles

Short Stroke Kits
Aluminum Carriers
Extended Length Firing Pins Light Weight Firing Pin Extensions
Action Springs
Coil Main Spring Conversions
Speed Sights for Rifles & Carbines
Leather Wraps & Butt Covers
Light Lever Safety Springs
Stainless Steel Magazine Springs & Followers

We also have competition parts for Marlin rifles, Stoeger double barrel shotguns & model 97 shotguns.

Competition Ready Rifles

Uberti Model 73 & 66 Rifles

Includes: Action job, short stroke kit, aluminum carrier, extended length firing pin with light spring, light weight firing pin extension, Action Springs, stainless steel magazine spring and follower, Speed Sight front sight, leather lever wrap.

We can also install a Competition Ready package in your Uberti or Winchester model 73 or 66 rifle.

**See website for Competition Ready Rifle prices**

JOE ALVES SR. ~ "WILL SHOOTEM" <-----> JOE ALVES JR. ~ "PORTUGY JOE" SHERYL ALVES ~ "LUCKY MAE SHOOTEM" <----> TARYN ALVES ~ "KATIE KABOOM" 541-515-6084 (Phone) ~ www.pioneergunworks.com ~ (FAX) 541-515-6998

(Continued from page 53)

Shot Case lube because it's a dry lube. If you have trouble with the round squeaking and sticking in stage one, you didn't use enough lube.

Station 2

Station 2 is where the primer is inserted and then powder. This is where someone asks, "What is your Station 2 is adjusted so that the case mouths are slightly belled. Station 4 is the case expander. For .380 diameter Bullets, use the biggest one in the RCBS Cowboy Dies kit. With the slight belling the bullet (at station 5) will sit inside the belling and will not crush the case when inserted.

Inserting the bullet at station 5.

load?" The stock answer in black powder cartridges is to adjust the powder to the height so that the bullet compresses it slightly. With substitutes, you can use the stock Powder Dillon Measure. With wholly black you need a black powder measure, such as the Lyman, or dippers. Using a funnel and Lee Dippers is doable in station 2 if you remove the die.

The black powder substitutes are less dense than wholly black. Whereas 100 grains VOLUME of Goex 3F weighs 101.4 grains, American Pioneer Powder 3F weighs just 78.4 grains. For .38-55 cases, start with 40 grains volume and adjust until the powder is slightly compressed by the bullets.

Improvise, adapt, and overcome

If I had a machine shop I could shorten a .38 Special funnel to work with the tall cases. Instead, I used a .38 Special funnel (Part #13599) but raised the die until the case would operate the powder bar completely when the platform reached the top of its travel without overbelling the case.

Guiding the bullet into the

At this point you can let go of the bullet.

.380 Diameter 260-Grain Desperado Cowboy Bullets

I use these bullets because they are soft lead, flat based, and have a lube compatible with black powder or substitutes. To use the big .380 diameter flat-based bullets I adjusted the travel to ever so slightly bell the case mouth. Then the bullet would sit on the case inside of the belling. Failure to do this was not pretty. Crushed cases resulted.

Station 3

Station 3 is the powder check system if the charge is slightly compressed by the bullet. If you want to load lighter charges, then replace the powder check system with a Lee Pro Auto Disk powder measure to drop filler. (See April 2012 Comboy Chronicle, Page 24, "Dispatches From Camp Baylor") Then as little as 20 grains volume WITH FILLER ON TOP is a reasonable (low recoil) load that still exceeds the smoke standard. I've found that polishing media, either corncob or walnut hulls works very well with the Lee Auto Disk. Filler should go to about 1/8" below the mouth of the case. If filler "migrates" because you didn't put in enough, the result can be a squib. It should be compressed.

(Continued from previous page)

Now finesse t he case into the de-capping/full length resizing die at Station 1.

Station 4

Station 4 is the expander die. The RCBS Cowboy dies come with 2 inserts for the expander die. Use the Crushed round, the result of not belling the case sufficiently.

Station 5 Station 5 is the RCBS Cowboy seater/crimper die. Once adjusted for your bullet, lock the ring in place. This, of course, goes for all three RCBS dies. This die will eventually clog up with bullet lube, so clean it before every loading session. The tall, skinny bullet will fall out of the case occasionally unless you hold it in place until the nose is in the die. So you're "finessing" station 1 and station 5. You can load faster than a single stage or turret press, but not as fast as you load, say, .38 Special.

Since this is a rifle round, the case insert slide must be in the rifle position.

Feeding Cases

If you use the electric case feeder, you need the Large Rifle Case feed disk (Part #21075). Otherwise you can load 10 at a time in the case feeder tube.

Eliminating Frequent Adjustments

Normally, because of the expense and difficulty of (Continued on page 56)

(Continued from page 55)

A box of match-grade rounds didn't take very long once everything was adjusted.

getting a lot of .38-55 brass during the shortage, you'll probably be making 200 to 300-round batches a few times a year, so every time you use it, you will have switched from some other caliber and back to it after you finish. Switching from one caliber to another is a pain. This is where a lot of time is wasted. This can be minimized with a tool head for each caliber with the dies pre-mounted and adjusted. Ideally you want a powder measure for each caliber. If you load different loads/powders in one caliber, say heathen smoke-

Round with Federal Large Pistol Primer. Note the primer is slightly inset. I used them because I didn't want any rifle primers getting into pistol rounds by mistake.
They would be high primers.
These primers worked fine in my black powder and American Pioneer Powder rounds.

less and American Pioneer Powder in .38 Special, then a different powder measure for each is really good. Mark every powder measure for the powder for which it's adjusted.

If you're using the powder check system, having a powder check system for each tool head is ideal, but you'll find that you can use one powder check system and multiple powder check rods for calibers .41 and below. You need a powder check rod (Part #21373, with check rod sleeve Part #12685 and 10-24 jam nut Part #13898) pre-adjusted for each caliber. Each tool head needs a Powder Die (Part #13990) on station 3, pre-adjusted. Powder Check rods for .44-.45 Calibers have to be removed from the check rod sleeve to remove them from the die collar (Part #10552). So you'll need one powder

To eliminate having to make adjustments every time
I change calibers,
I have tool heads set up for each, and each has its own Powder Measure.

check system for EACH .44 or .45 cartridge you load.

Checking Match Ammunition

If you're using an H & R rifle, remove the barrel and drop rounds into it. If they go in all the way and fall out when the barrel is turned upside down, they're good for a match. Do not try to chamber check with the barrel on the gun. Since the ejector is sticking out when the rifle is open, to check for fit you'll have to close the chamber—with the hammer back, a disaster waiting to happen.

(Continued from previous page)

All of the little pieces of the caliber conversion kits are kept in a bin box, labeled for each caliber.z

Dillon 550

If you have a Dillon 550, you'll be able to use most of this article. It doesn't have a powder check die, but if you're loading full charges, you can see the powder. You'll have to add filler with a squeeze bottle if you're making reduced charge loads.

If you've been loading .38-55 on a single stage or turret press, and you're familiar with your Dillon XL650, you'll be able to get everything adjusted and into production in an afternoon. Then making 300 .38-55 rounds slowly and carefully will only take an hour or so. Load all of the cases you have and get on Starline's notification list so you can get more when they're available. You'll want more.

Not a Member yet? Join today! Call 877-411-7277 or visit www.sassnet.com

Things About Cowboy Hats You Likely Didn't Know

Part One

Quality

By RThomas Double O. Seven, SASS #100947

ne of the most often-quoted sayings in Texas is, "where did you get that hat?" The second most quoted saying is, "Don't touch my hat!" Justin Moore, who just won country entertainer of the year, wrote a whole song about that. You don't mess with a person's cowboy hat without permission, as it's a highly prized and personal thing. The third saying you hear a lot around the West is, "that's the ugliest hat I have ever seen!" The reason for this often quoted saying is there are now thousands of different types, shapes and styles of cowboy hats and some will like some shapes but others will hate the same ones. Besides the thousands of different types of cowboy hats, there are also tens of thousands of different hatbands to put on them. It's a highly individualized and personal thing.

Parts Of A Cowboy Hat

Cowboy or Western hats, as you know them, are often defined by specifications of their parts. The parts of a cowboy hat are the crown, the brim, the hatband, the sweatband, and the inside lining. The inside sweatband/liner is sewn onto the crown. This leaves exposed stitching on the outside of the hat where the brim and the crown meet. The hatband covers up the stitching. Over the years, the cowboy hat has developed into a Western fashion statement with an infinite variety of crown shapes, brim sharps and hat band styles. Today, you have a huge amount of choices when it comes to hat style, hat type, and hat material.

What Do The X's Mean?

If you have not noticed, there is a wide variety of pricing when it comes to cowboy hats. They can range in price from under $20.00 for a cheap imported straw hat to several thousand dollars for a fine fur hat. In Texas, most cowboy hat wearers can spot what they call a cheap "fake" Western hat a block away and those hat wearers wouldn't be caught dead in one. The quality of the hat body used to make a hat is the main factor that determines the X's. In felt, it is determined by the percentage of furs used in making the hat body. Hats can be made with beaver, mink, chinchilla, buffalo, and other animal fur to make bodies. The mixture of the furs that are used with felt determines the X's. Various mixtures of animal fur and felt create the material that is used to make felt fur hats. In general, the greater the amount of animal fur mixed with the felt, the higher the X rating. The body of the hat is used to determine the X rating in straw, also. The tighter the weave and narrower the straw reed used to make the (Continued on next page)

Visit our web site and see all our anique products!

Things About Cowboy Hats You Likely Didn't Know • Part One Quality

(Continued from previous page)

hat, the better the X. Stetson, the first cowboy hat company, was the first to use the X rating system. Over the years, there have been other hat companies that have copied the original concept of Stetson hats and (you guessed it) they sometimes use different standards in rating. It's therefore important to buy a reputable brand name hat from a reputable hat retailer because of this. While most people who know cowboy hats can certainly tell the difference, you want to make sure that the X's you pay for are the X's you get! Stetson, Resistol, Charlie 1 Horse, Bullhide, and Twister Hats all mark their products with official X ratings that are reliable. Other hat companies have been known to mark what I would consider a 6X hat as a 20X hat and so on. The Internet is riddled with fly-by-night operations that import cheap cowboy hats from China and then try to pawn those cheap hats off as rather expensive cowboy hats. If it was me, I'd stay away from the "Internet only" hat sellers who do not have a real brick and mortar store because of this. Quality cowboy hat making is one of the last vestiges of Made In America products and quality Stetson, Resistol and Charlie 1 Horse hats are all made in the good old USA. Bullhide hats are made in South America. Texans are very picky and tend to only want a cowboy hat that's not only made in the USA but made in Texas. Both Resistol and Stetson hats are made in the Lone Star State. There are also some smaller hat companies that make very, very fine cowboy hats, which are very good hats you'd be proud to wear.

Advertise in The Comboy Chronicle Contact: PRAIRIE MARY Advertising Sales (505) 249-3573 mary@sassnet.com

In our next installment, we'll cover types of creases, crowns, and brims. ...

Hungry for Gold: The Tasteless Tale of ALFERD PACKER

By Big Dave, SASS #55632

In the winter of 1873-74, Alferd Packer became hungry, but gold wasn't on the menu any more. He and five fellow prospectors had become snowbound above the present site of Lake City, Colorado and were starving. In the end, he ate his comrades. The incident sparked a controversy that lingers until the present. While we know Packer resorted to cannibalism, questions remain as to whether he murdered all five of the others first, was an accomplice to murder, or if he only killed one of them in self defense and ate the others out of desperation.

Packer gave different accounts of the incident in his subsequent confessions. Since he wasn't the most truthful person in the world and was in a heap of trouble, it's hard to know which account, if any, is true. Forensic evidence suggests Packer's last confession could be the most accurate; that he shot and killed only Wilson Bell, who had attacked him after murdering the others. In that case, Packer was no murderer. However, the story could have easily been something else that Alferd Packer had "cooked up."

Prison portrait of a clean-cut Packer.

Whatever really happened, the incident touched off a media feeding frenzy during Packer's trial in the 1880s. He later became a famous (or infamous) figure in Colorado history. The student grill at the University of Colorado's Boulder campus is named in his honor. A couple of films and even a musical have been inspired by his exploits. At certain times of the year, there are chili cook-offs and barbeques in various Colorado locations with Alferd Packer themes. The author of this article devised and was even permitted to use an "Alferd Packer: To Tell the Truth" game when he was a junior high history teacher. All of this, needless to say, is in questionable taste.

This studio portrait is the most famous image of Alferd Packer.

In early December, 1873, Packer left Provo, Utah with 20 men who wanted to go to Colorado Territory to mine for gold. The others hired Packer as their guide because Packer claimed to know the area well. Later events would prove that he didn't know the area very well at all. Packer wasn't above stretching the truth a bit if he felt the situation called for it.

By January of 1874, the party reached Chief Ouray's camp near what is now Delta, Colorado. Ouray, who was friendly towards whites, suggested sensibly that they spend the winter at his camp instead of heading up into the mountains. About a month later, Packer and five others became sick of waiting and left anyway. Sure enough, they quickly got lost and became stuck in a blizzard somewhere close to present-day Lake City, Colorado. They were stranded, out of food and hungry. Although the party tried to track down game, it was scarce and the conditions were too harsh to journey far from camp.

On April 16, 1874 Alferd Packer wandered into the Los Pinos Indian Agency alone. There were some folks who claimed to have spotted him earlier in the nearby town of Saguache. At any rate, he seemed remarkably well fed for a person who had spent two months in the Colorado mountains in the dead of winter. When asked about the other miners, Packer claimed he had been separated from them and feigned surprise that he'd managed to reach civilization before they did.

Hungry for Gold: The Tasteless Tale of Alferd Packer

(Continued from previous page)

People around the area started to become suspicious because Packer seemed to have a lot of money with him, which he spent freely in the local saloon. An Indian guide later found strips of dried meat in the area near the Los Pinos Indian Agency. The strips turned out to be made from something other than game or, for that matter, any of the other local critters. Alferd Packer then had some serious explaining to do.

After some further dissembling, Packer admitted that he'd been forced to subsist on human flesh. His first story was that the oldest member of the party, Israel Swan, died and the survivors, who were starving, ate his remains. Less than a week later, another member of the party died and became provisions for the rest. Later, a third member perished in an "accident" and the three survivors helped themselves to his remains. Finally, Wilson Bell killed George Noon, the only person left other than Packer while Packer himself was out hunting. Packer claimed he returned to camp and a crazed Bell attacked him with a hatchet. Packer then shot Bell in self-defense and lived off Bell and what was left of the others until he was able to reach civilization.

Not only was this story repugnant; it was hard to swallow. Packer soon found himself in jail in Saguache awaiting trial. Nobody had found the bodies yet and Packer led search parties to the wrong places, claiming that he couldn't remember where the incident had occurred.

While Packer was still in jail, John Randolph, an artist from Harper's Weekly Magazine, found five different sets of decaying human remains near Slumgullion Pass. One

ISTORY LITTLE KNOW FAMOUS PEOPL Way Out West -By Joe Fasthorse, SASS #48769

"Happy Jack"

OHN "HAPPY JACK" MORCO was a dangerous pistol man and a corrupt lawman. Morco was born in New York and went west in 1866. He traveled first to California and it is said he killed as many as twelve men in gunfights during the next four years. In 1870, he moved on to Ellsworth, Kansas when the frontier cattle town was the West's wildest. Town Constable Will Semans had been killed the year before, leaving only Deputy County Sheriff Chauncey Whitney keep peace in the entire county. The town was in desperate need for law and order. Morco was hired as town Policeman. In 1873, gambler Billy Thompson and his famous gunfighter brother, Ben, arrived in Ellsworth. By this time Whitney had taken over County Sheriff and he and the Thompson brothers became fast friends. One day Ben Thompson tried to collect a debt from John Sterling and John Morco. Knowing Ben was unarmed, Sterling slapped him and Morco pulled a pistol. Thompson got a gun, was joined by Billy, and went to meet Morco and Sterling. Sheriff Whitney interceded, and the three confronted Morco and Sterling. Suddenly Billy's shotgun discharged, shooting Sheriff Whitney. Before Whitney died next day he testified that the shooting was an accident. Billy was tried and acquitted. But due to his inappropriate involvement in the whole affair, the Town Council fired Morco and appointed J.C. "Charlie" Brown to take his place. A few months later, Morco started a quarrel with a Texas cowboy in front of Lizzie Palmer's Dancehall. When Brown intervened, Morco and Brown both reached for their guns. "Charlie" Brown was faster and shot 'Happy Jack" twice, in the head and in the heart, killing him instantly. .

Hungry for Gold: The Tasteless Tale of Alferd Packer (Continued from page 61)

had died in what looked like a fight; the others had apparently been killed in their sleep. Pieces of the bodies had been cut away. Randolph made a sketch and hurried to Saguache.

Randolph led a search party back to the site. The others agreed with Randolph; one had died in a fight and the others had been murdered. They must have all been in pretty foul moods by the time they got back to Saguache. Obviously, Packer had lied again.

Meanwhile, Alferd Packer had managed to escape from the Saguache jail. According to some accounts, he was practically allowed to because the town didn't want the publicity of the upcoming cannibalism trial. Whatever actually happened, Packer remained missing for nine years. Randolph's remarkably gruesome sketch was published in Harper's Weekly along with an account. The Packer affair became well known.

In March 1883, one of the original members of the mining party which left from Utah happened to be in a saloon near Chevenne, Wyoming. He recognized Packer, identified him to the authorities, and Packer was arrested. Apparently he had been living under the alias, "John Schwartze." Packer was sent back to Colorado, which was now a state, to stand trial in the town of Lake City.

At the trial, Packer's story changed again. This time he claimed That Wilson Bell had killed the others while he'd been scouting for a way out of the snowbound camp. Packer returned to the camp only to discover Bell eating one of the dead miners. Bell attacked Packer with the hatchet he'd used on the others, but Packer shot him first. Since Packer still couldn't make it out of the camp, he lived off pieces of the others until the snow melted enough for him to get out of the mountains.

Unfortunately for Packer, the wounds on Israel Swan's body indicated he'd died during a struggle, and that contradicted Packer's latest story. Since Packer had already been caught in several other lies before and during the trial, he was strongly suspected of having murdered Swan himself. The trial ended with Packer's conviction for the premeditated murder of Israel Swan. He was sentenced to death.

Hungry for Gold: The Tasteless Tale of Alferd Packer

(Continued from previous page)

The University of Colorado's famous grill.

Legend has it that Judge Gerry, who had presided over the trial was particularly outraged that Alferd Packer had eaten five of the seven Democrats living in Hinsdale county. (Well, that's one way to alter a district's voting patterns!) However, the story is literally too good to be true. What actually happened was that Judge Gerry had merely handed out the sentence he felt was deserved.

As it turned out, Packer avoided the noose and won the right to a new trial. This time the Colorado Supreme Court overturned the murder conviction based on a technicality that arose from the fact that the crime had been committed while Colorado was still a territory. Packer was still in serious trouble; he was convicted on five counts of voluntary manslaughter and received a forty-year prison sentence.

Transferred to Canon City, Colorado, Packer served seventeen years of his sentence before he was paroled in 1901. A number of reporters for the Rocky Mountain News and Denver Post had lobbied for his release. As it turned out, their interest in Packer may not have been entirely altruistic. According to one source, the reporters and some news executives had hoped he would be hired as a sideshow freak at the Sells-Floto Circus and they would get a cut of the profits.

Alferd was spared the indignity of biting the heads off chickens, or whatever it was the circus had in store for him. In ill health, he worked first as a guard for the Denver Post. Later he moved to Jefferson County and became a manager for a number of mining companies. He didn't have long to live.

Packer died in 1907 from what appears to have been a stroke. Since he had been a Union soldier during the Civil War, he was buried at government expense. People who knew him later in his life remembered him as a kindly old man who enjoyed telling stories to children. There were no reports of any of the local kids disappearing, at any rate. Some sources claim he had become a vegetarian.

Packer's tombstone was inscribed, "Alfred Packer Co F 16 US Inf." Finally someone got the spelling of his name correctly. There's a story behind that as well; apparently he had gotten a tattoo that was misspelled. Everybody called him "Alferd," anyway. Like so many other things about the man, it's hard to separate the meat from the gristle.

* * * * * * *

"David P. Bailey, 2002." David Bailey. N.p., n.d. Web. 19 Aug. 2014.

Ramsland, Katherine. "Alfred Packer: The Maneater of Colorado." N.p., n.d. Web.

"Main Page." Alferd Packer. Wikimedia Foundation, 19 Aug. 2014. Web. 19 Aug. 2014.

"Alferd Packer." Lake City and Hinsdale County, Colorado Official Website for Tourism and Marketing. N.p., n.d. Web. 19 Aug. 2014. 4

Black Cowboys of the Old West

ROBERT LEMMONS:__ Horse Whisperer

By Col. Richard Dodge, SASS 1750 Life

We've all heard – and dismissed – the interesting statistic that a third of the cowboys of the Old West were black, mostly freed slaves moving into a new life away from the hated plantations. A "third" is more than a statistic; these were individual men and many were expert cowboys and valued employees, respected by employers and fellow cowboys alike – and dismissed from history. Many did not make their reputations as Bill Pickett did by becoming expert rodeo cowboys; they displayed management skills far beyond that of the average waddie, often denied advancement solely on the basis of their "old black face," in the words of Jim Perry of Texas' famed XIT ranch. And so, we begin a series of these forgotten men who played a significant role in the great story of the Old West.

Note: Comparise the preatest mustanger of them all. Born in 1848 as a slave to one John English and taken to Carrizo Springs in southwest Texas, Lemmons drifted on after being freed. As luck would have it, he wound up in Dimmit County, a land sparsely populated with people and heavily populated with wild mustangs. He found employment with a rancher named Duncan Lammons and set out on a cowboy career that was to bring him fame and modest fortune.

Being a good judge of character, Lammons took to the young man, barely 20 years old. He saw something in the former slave and taught him everything he could about horses and training. A friendship developed between them and Robert adopted his employer's family name as his own.

Lammons' intuition was spot on. Robert quickly displayed an uncanny ability to literally "become a horse." He could read their minds, anticipate their actions and gain their trust. It turned out that those thousands of mustangs were in demand as cow ponies as the cattle business began to grow throughout Texas and Lammons was quickly in the mustang business. Robert was his key to success.

Most mustangers of the day relied on large numbers of cowboys running a mustang herd to exhaustion, shooting the lead stallion, and driving the herd into a trap where they were broken to saddle through the expediency of riding them to exhaustion. Many are the stories of cowboys having to "take the buck" out of a horse every time it was saddled, something that wasted valuable time and threatened the safety of horse and rider alike.

Lemmons (the name had been subtly changed) despised the usual macho contest between horse and rider. He was one of the rare trainers of the time who did not view training as a matter of defeating and dominating the horse, but of gaining its trust and developing a partnership. And he wanted nothing to do with the drives to exhaust the mustangs into submission.

Black Cowboys of the Old West –

(Continued from previous page)

With his horse, Warrior, Lemmons would quietly approach a herd and gradually become literally a part of the landscape. Moving with the herd and never appearing unless mounted, he was eventually able to actually insert himself into the herd, gaining the trust of even the lead stallion – or driving it away.

Lemmons must have been pretty rank, as he took every effort to remove any human scent from himself, never changing clothes during the two or three weeks it took him to work his magic. He made his camp away from the herd so his campfire would not alert them. Cowboys from the ranch would leave food for him hanging in a designated tree. He transferred the food from their container to his to keep their scent off him.

It was only a matter of time until the herd, even the lead stallion, accepted him as a member, and then as a leader they would follow. With leadership established, Lemmons would quietly lead the herd to the home ranch and right into the corral, barely raising dust on the way in. On more than one occasion, he actually led the herd riding the lead stallion.

Lemmons' fame spread far and wide; he was in high demand and was paid handsomely for his services. The mustangs he delivered were undamaged and uninjured, calm and malleable, as beautiful as they had been in the wild, opposed to the lame, exhausted and malnourished ones gathered by the usual roughshod methods. Many a cowboy loved to brag about actually seeing Lemmons ride in at the head of a herd of wild mustangs.

By the age of 33, Lemmons had accumulated a modest fortune and purchased land for his own spread near Carrizo Springs. In 1881, he married Barbarita Rosales and over the years sired eight children, only three of whom survived to adulthood. He gradually increased his land holdings to over 1,200 acres and ran a fair-sized herd, along with sheep and goats. He registered his 4R+ brand and became a gentleman rancher. The mustanging business declined rapidly with the fencing of the open range and the famed mustanger's eyesight had begun to fail.

Racial discrimination dogged the Lemmons family for years. Their interracial marriage was illegal under Texas law and attempts were made to imprison him. Barbarita even had to claim African heritage in order to void the charge of interracial marriage and the impending prison term. Their children were denied access to public schools. Banned from attending church by some parishioners, he was pointedly invited back by the pastor and given a chair in a place of honor. He remained a devout member of the church for many years and became well respected for his generosity to his neighbors and friends – a cowboy to the end.

When Barbarita died, Lemmons' health was failing and he was cared for by the family of Erskine Rhodes, close friend and neighboring rancher. To the end, he expressed his love for the wild mustang and his readiness to ride amongst them again. He divided his considerable estate between Rhodes and his surviving son when he died in 1947 at the age of 99.

Others have tried to duplicate his magical feat of taking control of a herd of mustangs, but the skill remains his alone. There are other "horse whisperers" and their skills with horses are near unbelievable, but there will never be another Robert Lemmons.

Fenley, Florence; "Turns Mustang to Catch Mustangs"; The Cattleman, 1936

Hardaway, Roger: "African American Cowboys on the Western Frontier"; Negro History Bulletin, January – December, 2001

Wagner, Tricia M.: Black Cowboys of the Old West: Twodot; Helena, MT; 2011

Scholarship Recipient

Faster Than Lighting, SASS #82246 aka Luke Tunnell

Edited & Adapted by Justice Lily Kate, SASS #1000

oristell, MO. Faster Than Lighting (or F.T. Lightning), SASS #82246, belongs to Dad, One Eyed Pete, aka Ken Tunnell, SASS #50481, and Mom, Wendy, along with three brothers Studley Doright, SASS #50482, Fast As Lightning, SASS #72786, and Jonas Ender, SASS #78214. Their home club is the Arnold Rifle and Pistol Club and their group is the Gateway Shootist Society, or G.A.S.S.

F.T. has chosen to attend Missouri State University in Springfield and plans to major in computer science with a minor in criminal justice. His hope is to work in computer services for a Federal institute such as the FBI or CIA.

His brothers played a huge roll in influencing him as he grew up. They were the protective brothers that would let you fail if it taught a valuable lesson. Obviously, "my parents played the major part of raising me, letting me make decisions on my own."

Luke's time in SASS has not only honed his ability to fire weapons accurately and increase his overall reaction time and speed, it also gave him confidence that he uses in many other hobbies and sports. "I am most proud of how everyone in my club works together to organize events effectively and how everyone looks out for each other, whether it be on the range or at home."

Good luck to Luke as he pursues his degree in Computer Science and Criminal Justice at Missouri State University.

By Faster Than Lighting, SASS # 82246

AKA Luke Tunnel

Edited & Adapted by Justice Lily Kate, SASS #1000

The founding fathers had to use a huge amount of thought and consideration when planning an amendment to add to the Bill of Rights. Their proposed amendment had to be general enough to adapt with a changing culture, yet specific enough to not be trampled or misunderstood by the American people. The founding fathers certainly added the Second Amendment to the Bill of Rights for a reason, and to this day it holds its validity in our culture.

When they decided to add the Second Amendment to the Bill of Rights, the founding fathers were allowing the people to do more than protect themselves against wild animals or thieves. Rather, they were helping to protect the people from their own government, should it grow corrupt. One of the first steps of any government that has grown corrupt and wishes to control its people, beyond what is right and moral, is to take away their freedoms. With the Second Amendment, citizens were able to protect themselves from unnecessary seizures of property or freedoms. The founding fathers knew that people who had no means to protect themselves could lose their freedoms very easily and destroy everything for which our great nation stands. They also may have included it because of what the British did in Lexington, when they tried to seize arms from the populace. They also may have believed that an armed populace that was well regulated could make for a great militia when needed. This was especially important then, as there was no large professional American army. All in all, the Second Amendment is a final check to the government; this is to keep proponents of tyrannical ideals from taking over the American people and taking away their freedoms.

Thomas Jefferson said, "What country can preserve its (Continued on next page)

Regulator Baker, SASS #84495

January 17, 1949 - February 3, 2014

y cousin Tom Baker 🍙 (Regulator Baker) passed away after major surgery at the University Medical Center in Omaha, Nebraska. He was a lifelong firearms enthusiast and became a SASS member a few years ago. Health issues plagued much of his adult life until major surgery was needed this past February. A resident of Hastings, Nebraska he was a member of the New York Congregational Church.

Even though Tom was family, we were more like friends. See 'ya someday on the other side pard.

Marshall Starr SASS #13283

Why the Founding Fathers Included Second Amendment . . (Continued from previous page)

liberties if its rulers are not warned from time to time that their people preserve the spirit of resistance? Let them take arms." When a country becomes tyrannical it becomes up to the people or other nations to take arms against that government and rebel. This is the only way in most cases of true tyranny. With this in mind, as stated earlier, tyrannical Governments will try to disarm their people. George Mason, author of the Virginia Bill of Rights said, "To disarm the people – that was the best and most effectual way to enslave them."

In conclusion, the Second Amendment has shaped our country in the past, as it will in the future. It serves the people as a safety net against crimes against their freedoms by a corrupt government that could take shape at any point in the future. Without this one right, we could lose all our rights, which is a tyrannical way to govern any group of people. If the day comes when the American people are told to give up their arms, either by an invading country or the American government itself, I personally highly doubt they could successfully take away our guns. Any government that wants to take away your guns will soon have them pointed directly at you. It is, after all, human nature to gain as much power as possible.

Morgan James, SASS #81270 June 14, 1953 – October 21, 2013

Morgan James was taken from us suddenly on October 21, 2013, leaving a big hollow in our hearts as well as Cowboy Action Shooting<sup>TM</sup>.

Morgan James hailed from Pennsylvania, where he was active in several Cowboy Action Shooting™ clubs including the Jefferson Outlaws, Blue Mountain Rangers, the Perry County Regulators, the Westshore Posse, El Posse Grande and others.

Morgan had a lifelong love of history. Prior to Cowboy Action Shooting™ Morgan had been a guide at Gettysburg National Military Park and was a Civil War re-enactor. He ventured into his hobbies whole-heartedly, with a scale model of the Gettysburg battlefield as well as a host of historical collectibles in his home.

Bringing fresh ideas and having a gift for making folks laugh, he eagerly volunteered to direct the side matches at the Pennsylvania State Championship. The Morgan James games of skill and chance will be a staple at future matches, as a tribute to him and his devotion to the game—all will certainly miss him.

After his passing, and through tears, Morgan's fellow cowboys and cowgirls agreed to proceed with his regulator nomination for 2014. The Single Action Shooting Society also agreed that a man so deserving would be announced at END of TRAIL 2014.

Morgan left behind his beloved wife, Copper Starr, SASS #81888, who made the journey to New Mexico this year and shot END of TRAIL in memory of her husband, along with several of their friends from Pennsylvania.

sat on my porch; chair tipped back, boots hooked by spurs over the top rail. I was near blinded by the last rays of the day slipping behind the peaks of the Kiamichi Range. I was lost in my reverie of times long gone, never to return. I felt a warm cup placed in my hand and a whiff of bourbon. "You mind my company?" she asked, as she sat on the step. "No, 'course not... I was just watchin' the sunset, wonderin' how many more I've got comin'." I sipped the coffee. Bourbon is soooo good in hot Arbuckle's! In the valley, a locomotive for the Kiamichi Rail Road signaled "stop" with three blasts of the horn. It would interchange a few log buggies and a 40' boxcar of general merchandise with the Burlington. I closed my eyes and listened to the night song of the mountains. The loco gave two bleeps and revved up, dropping the four carloads on the interchange track for the BNSF. Thrumming and clanking, it labored out of the valley and only a faint odor of diesel and a plume of black smoke marked its passage from my sight and hearing.

By Chilkoot SASS #58803

Honeysuckle fragrance and the chirping of crickets and katydids filled the warm breezy evening air. Two doe mulies appeared out of the trees and stood several feet away looking in my direction, not sure if I was a threat. One doe stamped her hoof twice and watched me. The deer moved off unhurriedly, secure that I wasn't a danger. My wife stirred and rose from her seat, "I'm going in. Don't stay out too long, old man, we need our rest." "I'll be along. Thanks for the coffee, Honey." The singing of rubber tires on concrete down on the four-lane was muted by other night sounds. Way down the valley came the sound of the KRR loco blowing for the river bridge. The sound of Dottie West and David Frizzell-"You're the Reason God Made Oklahoma"—playing over KOKI, Oklahoma City, softly was heard from our open kitchen window. All seemed right in my world. Our horses in the corral were picking at each other over some trivial point that horses find to tussle about. Coyotes were howling at the full moon's rise, and a whippoorwill sang its song. Mama striped skunk with two kits ambled past where the deer had stood minutes ago. Her scent caused my nose to wrinkle, but she and her young'uns soon went on their way, spreading their heady scent as they waddled along, looking for bugs. I stood and stretched, put on my battered Stetson, grabbed my rifle, and slapped my leg for Rosie to follow. I sauntered toward the corral to check on our horses. Okay to say "buenos noches" to them. Silly I know, but the words, "just an animal," always sort of rankled me! Hell, my missus and me always sort of ranked our dogs one level below our kids. I count myself damn lucky, as most of us are, to live in such an obliging country, and it's beautiful to boot! But there is an insidious thing called "apathy" that could take it all away! Stepping inside, I listened to her soft breathing, pulled off my boots and got in bed. ...

CARTOON CORNER Part 2 SPACE WESTERN

Last issue, we presented the first story from the first issue of Charlton Publications' Space Western, from 1952. Herein is the second story from that comic book. Like the first, this adventure was written by Walter Gibson, who gained notoriety in the 1920s through the 1940s penning the pulp magazine exploits of The Shadow.

Even though reports of sightings of saucer-like objects in the sky dates back to the middle ages, the modern UFO "craze," which persists to this day, began in 1947, with the famous sighting by Kenneth Arnold. By 1952, the media was awash with fictional and non-fictional accounts of flying saucers and the comic book industry was quick to jump on the bandwagon. As Western adventures were also popular comic book fare at the time, it must have seemed a "natural" to combine the two in one title. Unfortunately, such was not the case and Space Western endured for only four issues.

In the next Combay Chronicle we'll break from science fiction fantasy to present the first part of the origin story of "The Black Diamond," a Lone Ranger-like masked cowboy hero from the 1950's publisher, Lev Gleason.

All of the comic book images used for Comic Book Corner are from the website, http://comicbookplus.com. Their free site features more than 28,000 public domain comic books of all genres, not just Westerns.

Cartoon Corner • Part 2 (Continued on page 70)

C'MON, YUH MIDGET-GIT TUH YORE FEET/
YEW BEEN A-SHOOTIN OFF YORE MOUTH
'BOUT WHUT YUH'D DO IFN WE WUZ TUH
MEET... WULL, I HEARED
'BOUT IT AN' I'M A-FIXIN' JUST LIKE YOU
TUH SEE TO IT THET YEW MILLED YOUR STEP
GO TUH HADES 'FORE FATHER SO'S YOU ANYTHIN' ELSE PASSES OULD CLAIM THE BAR X SPREAD, EH,
BIG SAM ? I'VE BEEN WAITING A LONG TIME FOR THIS SHOW DOWN /

I SEE HE HAS. I SUPPOSE YOU THINK THAT GUN OF YOURS IS GOING TO STOP ME FROM PROVING YOU KILLED YOUR
STEP FATHER..... WELL, I'M NOT AFRAID OF YOUR BULLETS OR OF YOUR SIZE,
S'AM AND I AM GETTING UP, SO GO AHEAD AND SHOOT /

WHAT I WOULD HAVE GIVEN TO BE WEARING MY OWN GUNS THAT DAY - I WAS BLUFFING BIG SAM, TRYING TO GET REAL CLOSE... WHEN ALL OF A SUDDEN ALL EIGHT FEET OF HIM CRUMPLED... DOG MY CATS- IF'N BIG SAM HAIN'T FAINTED PLUMB AWAY - AN HIM WITH THE SOMEBODY FETCH A BUCKET O' WATER DRAWED GUN, TOO /

F BIG SAM'S DYING CAME AS A SURPRISE TO ME, IT SURE WAS ONLY THE FIRST OF MANY SURPRISES FIRST OFF, NOBODY COULD MAKE OUT WHAT HE DIED FROM

THERE AIN'T NO MARK 'R WOUND ON HIM NO PLACE HE JUST UP AN' DIED, SHERIFF, I SEED IT /

WULL THAR'S WAYS T'KILL A MAN WITH NO SIGNS O' VIOLENCE.

AND SECOND, THE SHERIFF FIGURED I KILLED BIG SAM. NOW LOOKIT SON _ EVERYBODY IN THESE HILLS KNOWED YOU AN BIG SAM WAS A SPOILIN FOR A SHOWDOWN - BUT I NEVER THUNK I'D SEE THE DAY WHEN YOU'D POISON EVEN A RAT

HEY_I HAD NO CHANCE TO POISON BIG SAM / BESIDES SHERIFF, EVERYBODY KNOWS I SWORE SAM WOULD HANG FOR MURDERING OLD MAN TOMPKINS / IT SURE DON'T MAKE SENSE THAT I WOULD GO BACK ON MY SWORN

THIRD A STRANGER HAD COME TO ABERDEEN IN SEARCH OF ME, AND HEARING HOW I WAS INVOLVED IN BIG SAM'S DEATH, LOOKED THE SHERIFF UP, HE WAS PETE MARTIN OF THE TEXAS RANGERS.

IF YOU'LL EXAMINE THE BODY OF BIG SAM SCIENTIFICALLY AS I JUST DID SHERIFF-YOU'LL FIND HE DIED OF A RADIO ACTIVITY POISONING THAT ONLY COMES FROM A DIRECT ATOMIC EXPLOSION I SUGGEST YOU GO CHECK YOUR FACTS.

THAT'S IT IN A NUTSHELL, SPURS. WE'VE GOT TO FIND AND RESCUE THESE MISSING
SCIENTISTS WHEREVER THEY'RE BEING HELD.
AND WE'VE GOT TO LOCATE THE SOURCE
PILE AND PROVING GROUNDS BEING USED FOR THESE ILLEGITIMATE TESTS!

I GUESS BIG

SAM'S DYING

I RECKON THIS IS OUR ANSWER AS TO

LOOKIT, SPURS-THEY'S

YOU KNOW, HANK - BIG SAM KILLED

HIS STEP FATHER SO'S HE COULD

WULL, THE NEXT TIME

YEW SWEAR T'GIT A

WANTED!

RELOADERS & ACTION SHOOTERS

GERMANTOWN, WI

REWARD!!

WWW.ACMEBULLET.COM

Indian Creek Leather

Competition Rigs, Shotgun Belts Buscadero Rigs,

Cuffs, CCW Holsters & Belts

'Quality that takes your breath away not your wallet.' www.Indiancreekleatherco.com Gene Weishuhn, AKA Leatherman #30776 419-680-9069

CUSTOM STEEL SIGNS

www.buyrevi.com 1-877-289-7384

Call, write or shop online

www.x-calibers.com

Xcalibers, Inc. P.O. Box 52534 Knoxville, TN 37950 Phone: 865-671-9886 Email info@x-calibers.com

FOR THE BEST IN

SUPPLIES

1800's Reproduction Old West Spectacle Frames

www.HistoricEyeWearCompany.com

862-812-4737

Yankoe Sister SASS 454842

BEANTOWN BOB

"Gun Slinger" 0+4 535.50 + 58 H

With Your Custom Alias

BEANTOWN BOB'S EMPORIUM (800) 605-3219

Call to order M-F & DOAM to 4:00PM EST

Your alias permanently cut out in steel silhouette plate.

Hang on your wall, or use to personalise your gun cart.

Great gift for that "Cowboy or Cowgirl" in your life.

3 Cart Models Available 4 Beautiful Hand-Rubbed Finishes Optional Cooler Rack and Accessory Boxes

Black Hills .45 (Long) Colt

WWW.REGTQM.COM

YOUR ONE STOP SHOP FOR WILD BUNCH GUNS

AND 1911 PISTOLS!

Contact SQUIBBER at (602) 309-4198 http://www.fustybunah.org/repair.html

LIBERTY LEATHER

Custom Gunleather Of The "Old West" 281-659-3998 Liberty County, Texas

westerngunleather.com

DON BARNETT (GROUCHY OLD BEAR) SASS#42002/LIBERTYLEATHER@SECGLOBAL.NET

Chey-Cast Bullets

www.chevcast.com

Made in Cheyenne, Wyoming ~ USA

by

Slowpoke Wyoming SASS#5164LR and Overland Kid SASS#17651L

FREE SHIPPING

On all orders over $100 by USPS Priority mail

Prices start at $7.50 Order on line at: WWW. SASSDECALS.COM

Bob Enck barnmaster@comcast.net 142 Chapel Road Newmanstown, PA 17073

Phone: 717-949-2215 Fax: 717-949-2625

Specializing in Cowboy Action Shooting Check our website for a complete list of firearms for Cowboy Shooting

SASS Dealer #30

www.encksgunbarn.com

it's made to your specifications and needs. Fancy or plain, or anywhere in between. www.workingcowboyleather.com

We make wood products for cowhoy shooters! Laser Engraving, Custom orders Such as loading blocks, boot puller, plaques, name tags and more, come check us out at www.oldwestjdk.com or give us a call at 501-321-2226 Rusty Rider & Dusty Dee

OLD SLAPOUT HOLSTERS

Gun Belts & Holsters Buttstock cover for rifle/shotgun Shot shell slide & lever cover www.oldslapoutholsters.com

DON'T LET RAIN OR DARKNESS TAKE AWAY YOUR FUN!

SHOOT YOUR REVOLVER IN THE HOUSE!

GET THE ELECTRIC SHOOTOUT GAME – IT'S GREAT FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY!

CALL 408-626-9360 OR 949-786-4011 TODAY!

SMECI@EARTHLINK.NET SASS #90090

GREAT GIFTS FROM THE SASS MERCANTILE!

New Membership Basket

Give the Gift of Cowboy Action Shooting! With SASS badge in a leather badge holder; "Cowgirls, Corsets and Smokin' Ponies' book, member certificates, SASS Marshal lapel pin, SASS decal, and so much more. $79.99

Slix Sok Gun Case

Holds 2 guns with a maximum barrel length of 7 1/2" or less. Will also accommodate a pair of 1911's for the Wild Bunch Shooter. Great gift idea! $45.00

40" Canvas Dust Cover

For your long guns, Includes leather SASS Marshal patch. $9.95

SASS Marshal Mouse Pad Regular $9.95 on sale for $5.00

Crossed Pistol Mouse Pad Regular $9.95 on sale for $5.00

......

NEW!!! Imprinted Low Ball Glasses. End of Trail 2014 or the

SASS Marshal logo. $4.95 each or 2 for $8.95 Mix and Match

Set of 4 Ceramic Coasters

Bunch Rig with Marshal Logo

Made exclusively for the Single Action Shooting Society by Mernickle Leather. SASS Wild Bunch rig in saddle tan leather. Great gift for the Wild Bunch in your family. $299.95 Excludes gun and mags!

SASS Winners Buckle & Order Form (Please clip and return)

Order your winners buckle today through the SASS Mercantile!

Any 1st to 5th place category winner in any SASS Sanctioned State, Regional, Territorial, National or World Championship match can order a buckle with proof of placement. Complete the form below and return to the SASS office with payment or call the office to place your order. Congratulations to our many winners!!!

| Alsas:                                                                    | S                        | ASS #:      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------|-------------|
| Name:                                                                     | 8400                     | MODEL STATE |
| Address:                                                                  |                          |             |
| City:                                                                     | State:                   | Zip:        |
| Buckle Informatio                                                  | on:                      |             |
| SASS Sanctioned Match:  State Championship Terri World Championship Terri | nal Championship 🗇 Natio |             |
| Date & Year:                                                              | Location:                |             |
| Shooting Category:                                                        | Place of F               | inish:      |
| Proof of Placement:                                                       | 13                       | - 83        |
| Club Contact:                                                             |                          | :           |

| $109.    | 95 (Includes Shipping) |
|-----------|------------------------|
| Phone     | 11:                    |
| wer areas |                        |

Phone 2: E-mail:

Method of Payment (U.S. funds): $109.95 (Includes $9.00 stipping)

(NM Residents Add 7.625% Sales Tax) SUBTOTAL: $____

TOTAL: s ☐ Personal Check ☐ Money Order ☐ Amex ☐ Visa ☐ M/C

Card #: Exp. Date: Signature:

TO ORDER CALL: (877) 411-SASS OR VISIT WWW.SASSNET.COM

New Members from each State and Country June 1-August 31, 2014

MEMBERS BY STATE

SASS # ALIAS

| AK |  |
|----|--|
|    |  |
|    |  |
|    |  |
| _  |  |

| 100,759 | Joey Dixon         |
|---------|--------------------|
| 100,870 | Bull Plinkerton    |
| 100,908 | Dahlia Spud        |
| 100,911 | Festus G. Lonetree |
| 100,921 | Tandy Belle        |
| 100,973 | Dead Eye Angel     |
| 100,990 | 100990             |
| 101,055 | Diamond N Chip     |
| 101,182 | Colt Rojers        |
| 101,183 | Noon               |
|         |                    |

| 100,671 | Reddlegg John      |
|---------|--------------------|
| 100,701 | 100701             |
| 100,761 | Rebel Cash         |
| 101,068 | Alabama Dusty Rose |
| 101,103 | Kennesaw Kitty     |

AR

| 100,707 | Cornbread Dan  |
|---------|----------------|
| 101,177 | Dixie's Angel  |
| 101,184 | Slow Poke Dave |

AZ

| 100,682 | Bad 'The'      |
|---------|----------------|
| 100,708 | 100708         |
| 100,720 | Tripps Tu Win  |
| 100,747 | Tornado Tucker |
| 100,848 | Oregon Girl    |
| 100,891 | Truth Herz     |
| 100,912 | Silver Halide  |
| 100,948 | Peacemaker Mac |
| 100,951 | Outlaw Mike    |
| 101,071 | Choshman       |

CA

| The state of the s |                          |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| 100,685                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Odessa Slim              |
| 100,712                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Rev. Oliver              |
| 100,713                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Buck Three Eighty        |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | C W Snuff                |
| 100,726                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                          |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Blackie Persohn          |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Margaretta Margy         |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Fearless Frank           |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Suisune Jim              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Mortician                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Piaute Kid               |
| 100,808                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Big Dog Jim              |
| 100,814                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Hang Town Tom            |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Razorback Red            |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Brett Maverick           |
| 100,823                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Sicilian Slick Rick      |
| 100,841                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Gus Chiggins             |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Remington Brass          |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Colonel Edward S. Curtis |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Kid Dowright             |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                          |

| 100.971                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Jailbreak Jeff        |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------|
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Shadow Walker         |
| The state of the s | Smokey Jim            |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Wyatt Burp            |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Rusty Iron Sight      |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Isabella Belle        |
| 100,931                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                       |
| THE RESERVE OF THE PARTY OF THE | Tattoo Slim           |
| 100,941                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                       |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Liebre Kid            |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Dirty Deacon          |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | "Left Eye" Bobby B.   |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | One Eagle             |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Buck Horn Brad        |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Snoozer Ben           |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Wyatt Steelcutter Erl |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Wicked Willy          |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Cotati Ranger         |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Redwood Kid 'The'     |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Dusty Sagerider       |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Legally Loaded        |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Juan Colorado         |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | El Monte Mike         |
| 101,152                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                       |
| 101,165                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Pato Loco             |
| 101,168                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Fifty Cal Denney      |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Kill M. Kurt          |
| 101,172                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Estado E. Jefferson   |
| 101,185                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | The Maravilla Kid     |
| 101,193                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Whistler              |
| CO                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                       |
| - pagitotismonomous                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                       |

| 100,670 | Wyatt Derp         |
|---------|--------------------|
|         | Ross Santee        |
| 100,692 | Sloppy Joe         |
|         | Helen Hunt Jackson |
| 100,770 | Kenai Belle        |
| 101,000 | Gold Hill Ambler   |
| 101,064 | Happy Parson       |
|         | Storm Crow         |

| 100,851 | Rawhide Jessie |
|---------|----------------|
| 100,998 | Basmurding     |

| FL                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                      |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------|
| 100,709                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Bigfoot Giovanni     |
| 100,731                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Kentucky Cracker     |
| 100,792                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Herr Waldkopf        |
| 100,839                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Reverend Brimstone   |
| 100,846                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Apocalypse           |
| 100,867                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Country Parson       |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Doc Damon            |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Devious Doc          |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Annie Autry          |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Shyster's Revenge    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Texas Curly Wolfe    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Loneloader           |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Paisley Jack         |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Jericho Jerry        |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 100995               |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Sawgrass Meanstreak  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Wild I Owan          |
| STREET, STREET | Sheriff Squarehottle |

| Juan Rico-Suave        |
|------------------------|
| Doc Grumbles           |
| Doc LaVeau             |
| Snap-Shot Fossil       |
| Lady Steel Horse Rider |
| Annie Sixgun           |
|                        |

| - The St. 100 |                         |
|---------------|-------------------------|
| 100,681       | Doc Snake Oil           |
| 100,838       | Lead Redemption         |
| 100,991       | Arkansas Crickett       |
| 101,009       | First SGT Dick Danger C |
|               | Troop Seventh Cavalry   |
| 101,030       | Cripple Crow            |
| 101.072       | Irish Lass              |

| Politica and the second |         | THE PROPERTY AND INC. |         |
|-------------------------|---------|-----------------------|---------|
| 101.167                 | Arizona | Death                 | Rattler |

| 100,849 | Ruben Yutzy         |
|---------|---------------------|
| 100,896 | August Werner       |
| 100,993 | Deaf Pitchfork Pete |
| 101,003 | Rangin' Ron         |
| 101,005 | Tam Bam             |
| 101,078 | Jimmy Lone Wolf     |
| 101,079 | Thief River Annie   |
| 101,127 | 101127              |

ID

| 100,700 | Marshall Digger Magee |
|---------|-----------------------|
| 100,710 | Lady Baltimore        |
| 100,800 | Snake River Jack      |
| 100,801 | Idaho Kid             |
| 100,866 | Critter Creek Debbie  |
| 100,897 | One                   |
|         | C. J. Queen of Harts  |

| 100,684 | Lil Dee                  |
|---------|--------------------------|
| 100,695 | Buffalo Bri              |
| 100,779 | Tame Doe                 |
| 100,783 | Prairie Mustang          |
| 100,813 | Blg E                    |
| 100,902 | Will I. Hitit            |
| 100,950 | Magic Mike               |
| 100,962 | Rockey Top Johnson       |
| 101,098 |                          |
| 101,102 | Ripplecreek Kid          |
| 101,114 | Back-Shooter Borg        |
| 101,138 | Blackjack Mark Valentine |
| 101,141 | Stacey Bridges           |
| 101,157 | Cotton Pickens Tobias    |

| Craverr wordineau    |
|----------------------|
| Chippewa Charlie     |
| E'ville Barney       |
| Wyoming Jim          |
| Indiana Loose Cannor |
| Moon Shooter Jack    |
| Little Red Sure Shot |
| Dynamite Die         |
| Deadwood Ned         |
|                      |

| 101,075                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | J.R. Blackstone                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 101,076                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,083                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,120                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,163                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,192                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | IVIALL HASII                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| KS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,815                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Badmoon Rison                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 100,889                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,984                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,095                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Rattlesnake Jake Holliday                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| KY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,674                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Lead Leas                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Mountain Wolf                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Rowdy Diamond                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 100,910                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Lucky Vaquero                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 101,051                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,082                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Barbed Wire Dot                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,158                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,200                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| LA                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | as a market                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Shameless Magee                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,010                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Old Gimlet Eye                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| MA                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,796                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Sheriff Papa Bri                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Nichewaug Kid                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | HangFire McGee                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 101,181                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Quick Nick                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| MD                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| And the second s | Hound Dawg Henry                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Dizzy Derringer                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,787                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Jimmy Two Times                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,105                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,131                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | hearless                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| ME                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,968                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Old Coyote                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| MI                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Marshal Wesley Grant                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 100,799                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Squarehead Berntsen                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 100,829                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Dead Ridden                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Badland Bandit                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 100,957                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,054                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Dixboro Dutch                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 101,093                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Single Barrel Bob                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| MN                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Company of the Compan |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Big Olle Threefellers                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 100,794                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | HorseShoe Slim                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Buck Hammer Les                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,101                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Cayuse Johnson                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| MO                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 100560                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 100,669                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 100669Texas Rawhide                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Constance Noring                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 100,863                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | The second secon |
| 100,959                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 100959                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

| 101,146                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Cheyenne Maverick                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| - Marie Contract - Con | Gracie Taylor                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Mud Slinger                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| MT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | LOUIS B. J.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Li'l Miss Dewdrop                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| THE RESERVE AND ADDRESS OF THE PARTY OF THE  | Cold Smoking Carp                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Bookworm                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 100,806                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Montana Troubleshooter                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Moo Moo Dynamite                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,885                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Little Miss Tumbleweed                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Timothy "Hard Luck" Finnegan                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Last Chance Ranger James                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 101,032                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Montana Wild Rose                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| NC                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| NC                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 100,691                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Castaway Cowboy                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Hogleg McLaury                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Hornie Toad McLaury                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | A. A.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| ND                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 100,705                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Dusty Wells                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Crazy Pete From Crazy Woman CreeMandan Kid 'The'                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 100,778                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Duey Cheatum                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Padre Pistolas                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| NE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 100,835                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Wyatt The Kid Clanton                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| NH                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 2.07                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Dillon Van Cleef                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,970                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| MI                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| NJ                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 6-4-9-4                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Cactus Red                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon Hicks                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 100,852101,036101,119                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Deacon HicksCrazy Joe                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 100,852101,036101,119101,121101,155                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge Bob                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 100,852101,036101,119101,121101,155                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge Betsy                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 100,852101,036101,119101,121101,155101,156101,201                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink Harlin                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 100,852101,036101,119101,121101,155101,156101,201                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge Betsy                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 100,852101,036101,119101,121101,155101,156101,201                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink Harlin                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 100,852101,036101,119101,121101,155101,156101,201101,202                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish Willow                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 100,852101,036101,119101,121101,155101,201101,202NM100,688100,706                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish WillowIrish Willow                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish WillowBudBudTimberwolf Johnson100714                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish WillowBudTimberwolf Johnson100714                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish WillowBudTimberwolf Johnson100714100715                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish WillowBudTimberwolf Johnson100714100715Doc WallabyAlva Verde                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish WillowBudTimberwolf Johnson100714100715Doc WallabyAlva VerdeMassasauga Maryann                                                                                                                                                              |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish WillowBudTimberwolf Johnson100714100715Doc WallabyAlva Verde                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish WillowBudTimberwolf Johnson100715Doc WallabyAlva VerdeMassasauga MaryannHoodoo JonesArk PreacherMose N. Quigley                                                                                                                             |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish WillowBudTimberwolf Johnson100714100715Doc WallabyAlva VerdeMassasauga MaryannHoodoo JonesArk PreacherMose N. QuigleyBucho Cargado                                                                                                          |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish WillowBudTimberwolf Johnson100714100715Doc WallabyAlva VerdeMassasauga MaryannMrassasauga MaryannMrassasauga MaryannMose N. QuigleyMose N. QuigleyMay Joe                                                                                   |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish WillowBudTimberwolf Johnson100714100715Doc WallabyAlva VerdeMassasauga MaryannHoodoo JonesMose N. QuigleyMose N. QuigleyMay JoeTwisted Annie                                                                                                |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish WillowBudTimberwolf Johnson100714100715Doc WallabyAlva VerdeMassasauga MaryannMrassasauga MaryannMrassasauga MaryannMose N. QuigleyMose N. QuigleyMay Joe                                                                                   |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish WillowBudTimberwolf Johnson100714100715Doc WallabyAlva VerdeMassasauga MaryannHoodoo JonesArk PreacherMose N. QuigleyBucho CargadoHay JoeTwisted AnnieWild Eye Walter                                                   |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish Willow BudTimberwolf Johnson100714100715Doc WallabyAlva VerdeMassasauga MaryannHoodoo JonesArk PreacherMose N. QuigleyBucho CargadoHay JoeTwisted AnnieWild Eye Walter                                                  |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish Willow BudTimberwolf Johnson100715Doc WallabyAlva VerdeMassasauga MaryannHoodoo JonesArk PreacherMose N. QuigleyBucho CargadoHay JoeTwisted AnnieWild Eye WalterTallapoosa Kid The'Swede Hoffman                        |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish Willow BudTimberwolf Johnson100714100715Doc WallabyAlva VerdeMassasauga MaryannHoodoo JonesArk PreacherMose N. QuigleyBucho CargadoHay JoeTwisted AnnieWild Eye WalterTallapoosa Kid 'The'Swede HoffmanSidewinder Steve |
| 100,852                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Deacon HicksCrazy JoeLittle Joe LightningBlue Ridge BobBlue Ridge BetsyDink HarlinIrish Willow BudTimberwolf Johnson100715Doc WallabyAlva VerdeMassasauga MaryannHoodoo JonesArk PreacherMose N. QuigleyBucho CargadoHay JoeTwisted AnnieWild Eye WalterTallapoosa Kid The'Swede Hoffman                        |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | A CONTRACTOR OF THE PARTY OF TH |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| NY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| TO THE PERSON NAMED IN COLUMN TWO IS NOT THE PERSON NAMED IN COLUMN TWO IS NAMED IN THE PERSON | Sandy Steel                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Blaze Assassin                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Major P. O. Tential Disaster                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Luke L. Short                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Parson Dusty West                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Cactus Cat Ryan                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Hillbilly Hound Dog                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Furnace O'Sheedy                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Tequila Rob                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| OH                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| ОН                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 2000                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 100,784                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Willy Joe                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Indian Creek Will                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Butcher Man                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Deadwood Darlin'                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 100,903                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Dogman Dave                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 100,925                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Presque Isle Jack                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Verona Belle                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 100,976                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Reuben "Ruby" Ulysses Colorado                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Dawg Bone Bill                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Raging Thunder                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Baby Doll Blue                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Streak Lightning                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Lucky Thirteen                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Jedediah Strong                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Blue Eyed Bill                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Sass Three Fifty Seven                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 101,147                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Colonel Beers                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 101,161                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Trapper John Greene                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 101,162                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Cheri Baby                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| 101,179                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Chrispy Slim Pollock                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| OK                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Train Wreck Tony                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Pendleton Rose                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 100,803                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Geezer                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Grey Wolf Graham                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 100,905                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | John Claude                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Captain Lee                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 100,923                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Dodge Doc                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Cal Harmington                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 101,069                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Israel Swann                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 101,104                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Tucker Bottoms Bandit                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | William Carson                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Callus "Cal" Leverfinger                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | lke N. Hackett                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| fig. 1                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | MATTER STATE OF THE STATE OF TH |
| OR                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 201000000000000000000000000000000000000                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | New Hope Kid                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Jabber Walk                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Duke Delton                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Lyda Rose O'Cassidy                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 100,890                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,018                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Sodbuster Fred                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 101,087                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Clicker Kid                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| PA                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,732                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 100732                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,757                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,805                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Freight Train                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Cahoots Clint                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 100,986                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Sleepy I Kid                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Willie GOODNEWS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,153                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Southside Jack                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| sc                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| The second of th | Jim Nichols                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Palmetto Patti                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 100,054                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Fairmetto Patti                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |

| 20,52,000 (31,000)                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|----------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                              | Mustang Jane                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 100,942                                      | Palmetto Traveler                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 100,943                                      | Stonewall McCrady                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|                                              | Ricochet Wally                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                              | Django Unchained -                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 101,034                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,001                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| SD                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101019011111111111111111111111111111111      | TenKey Bandit                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 100,676                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,842                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                              | Melody Jones                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 101,063                                      | Long Valley Jan                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| TN                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Principles                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,766                                      | Cricket George                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 100,818                                      | Bitterroot Jak                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                              | Josie-Grace Underfyr                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 100,978                                      | Deadwood Don                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 100,992                                      | Copperhead Steve                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 101,001                                      | Jacob Hawkins                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 101,059                                      | TN Missv                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 101.086                                      | Renegade Nightingale                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|                                              | Lefty's Queen of Hearts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 101/02 (111111111111111111111111111111111111 | and the state of t |
| TX                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,704                                      | Grumps                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|                                              | Bangity Bang                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 100,710                                      | Lord Shinerbauch                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,743                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                              | Hackamore Hayden                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|                                              | Big John Mesquite                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 100,753                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                              | Creek Jack Johnson                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 100,791                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,798                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                              | Tombstone Tim                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|                                              | San Saba Sam                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 100,830                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                              | Bloodhound Bob                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 100,832                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,850                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,858                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,859                                      | Mesquite Drifter                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 100,876                                      | Lefty Wilson                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 100,877                                      | Texas Girl Twofer                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 100,881                                      | Dripping Lead                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 100,883                                      | Alienist'The'                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 100,893                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,894                                      | Gambling Paige                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 100,915                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,929                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,932                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,947                                      | Thomas Double O. Seven                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 100,952                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                              | Mandy Mae West                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 100,954                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,983                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                              | Trekker Kenya                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 101,011                                      | Rotten Reed                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                              | Silver Dollar Sage                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|                                              | Violet Van Horn                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                              | Rev. Dusty Barbacobre                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 101,084                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                              | SteelShot Scott                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,089                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,115                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                              | Make My Day                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 101,134                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                              | Blue Eyed Caballero                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|                                              | Frechy LeBoeuf                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 101,194                                      | Lobo Muerto                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| SECURITION AND ADDRESS OF                    | DESCRIPTION OF REPORT OF PERSONS ASSESSED.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |

| UT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                              |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------|
| 100,745                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Doc Ratchet                  |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Kioti Jack Jackman           |
| 101,040                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Confederate Kid              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Crack Shot Craig             |
| 101,112                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Sweetwater Sam               |
| VA                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                              |
| Mark Street, and Street, Stree | Moosejaw Menace              |
| 100,683                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Robert D. Banks              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Grumpy Six Guns              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Wheelgun Dan                 |
| 100,967                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Virginia Wrangler            |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Wild Bill Hunter             |
| 101,016                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
| 101,149                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Tumbleweed Tink              |
| 101,164                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Speedy Gonzalez              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                              |
| WA                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                              |
| 100,702                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
| 100,703                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Lawless Lee James            |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Tom BlackJack Ketchum        |
| 100,754                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
| 100,755                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Moonshine Jake               |
| 100,869                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Jersey Termite               |
| 101,007                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Philin D'Blanque             |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Bushwhacker Leo              |
| 101,091                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
| 101,132                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
| 101,143                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
| 101,144                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Reb "Belfast" McNight        |
| 101,145                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Crackerjack's Kid            |
| 101,176                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Nen E. WICK                  |
| WI                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                              |
| 100,677                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Dead-eye Deb                 |
| 100,717                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
| 100,740                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
| 100,837                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
| 101,050                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
| 101,080                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Trail Boss Brett             |
| 101,180                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 101180                       |
| WY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Hogleg Homer                 |
| 100,763                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
| 100,764                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Nick O. Demus                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                              |
| MEMB                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | ERS                          |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                              |
| BA CO                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | UNTRY                        |
| SASS #                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | ALIAS                        |
| SASS #                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | ALIAS                        |
| AB                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                              |
| 100,696                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
| 100,697                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Jersey Girl                  |
| 100,827                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Light Leather                |
| 100,884                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Craigs KidCross Draw Kid |
| 101,113                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                              |
| The state of the s |                              |

| ACT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 101,060                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Admiral                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| ВС                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,873                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Ridge Rider                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Missy Leadslinger                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 100,980                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,987                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,994                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Chinky Jones                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 101,014                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Shotgun ShaeKitty Crossdraw                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,074                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,100                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,125                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,126                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | William B. Doolin                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| MB100,964                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Dhoobo Blozo                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 100,864                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Pricebe biaze                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| NC                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,768                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Vicky Magginthy                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| NSW                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,860                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | General Lord Glencoe                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| ON                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,679                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Cavuse King                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 100,687                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Wheelgun Willie                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,744                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Brown Coat Malcolm                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 100,802                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,810                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,811                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Grey OwlDuke Newcombe                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Curly Sam Walker                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 100,975                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Big Bang                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Joey Slow Hands                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,043                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Dalton James                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| QC                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,742                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,041                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Django Hawk                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 101,108                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| QLD                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Developed Beats                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 100,936                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Deadwood Dante                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Emmett The Innocent                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 101,188                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| SA                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 101,035                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Little Bill                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| SK100.769                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Slowpoke Tucker                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Last Chance Lexi                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | George Kelby Jr.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| VIC                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| PROPERTY AND ADDRESS OF THE PARTY AND ADDRESS | Trapper Macalister                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 100,961                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Doc Crow                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | THE STATE OF THE S |

The Founders' Words Reveal Intent

By Colonel Dan, SASS Life/Regulator #24025

The all probably know the Second Amendment by heart, but do we know the underlying intent that served as a foundational basis for that Amendment?

Obviously, the basic content of our Founding Fathers' thoughts ultimately determined the final content of our Constitution. But in order to gain some insight to their fundamental thought processes, i.e. intent, we might want to read what they wrote on the subject external to the Bill of Rights.

In their hearts of hearts—their souls—how did they really feel about the private citizen's right to keep and bear arms—and why? This is a question the anti-gunners in our midst use and twist constantly—as in "The Second Amendment doesn't really mean what you think it does. It means that only a well regulated militia has the right to keep and bear arms, not the people." The militia is defined by the anti-gunners as the National Guard—in other words, a government regulated military force. Is that the view of the Founding Fathers?

To help us better understand their intentions I suggest we read the words they used when persuading others about the merits of their ideas. Therein we'll find the best available indication of actual intent behind the Amendment from those that actually wrote it.

Below are a few representative examples among many regarding our right to keep and bear arms from the Founders themselves. All quotes are unedited by me. I could not and would not presume to improve upon the inspiration of our Founding Fathers.

My only request is that you read, think, and determine for yourself what they really meant. Then after reading their own words, ask yourself if the Founders seem like advocates of "common sense gun control" or do they seem somewhat more like "Second Amendment Absolutists" to you?

Once you come to a conclusion, be an active voice of commitment in defense of and for that conclusion—whatever it may be. Just don't be non-committal and therefore uncommitted—there's too much at stake.

"No free man shall ever be debarred the use of arms." Thomas Jefferson, Proposed Virginia Constitution (1776).

"A militia when properly formed are in fact the people themselves and include all men capable of bearing arms... To preserve liberty it is essential that the whole body of people always possess arms..." Richard Henry Lee, Additional Letters From the Federal Farmer 53 (1788).

"I ask, sir, what is the militia? It is the whole people. To disarm the people is the best and most effectual way to enslave them." George Mason, during Virginia's Convention to Ratify the Constitution (1788).

"Laws that forbid the carrying of arms...disarm only those who are neither inclined nor determined to commit crimes. Such laws make things worse for the assaulted and better for the assailants; they serve rather to encourage than to prevent homicides, for an unarmed man may be attacked with greater...confidence than an armed man." Thomas Jefferson, quoting Cesare Beccaria in On Crimes and Punishment (1764).

"The supreme power in America cannot enforce unjust laws by the sword, because the whole body of the people are armed, and constitute a force superior to any band of regular troops." Noah Webster, An Examination into the Leading Principles of the Federal Constitution Proposed BV the Late Convention (1787).

"Americans need not fear the federal government because they enjoy the advantage of being armed, which you possess over the people of almost every other nation." James Madison.

"False is the idea of utility that sacrifices a thousand real advantages for one imaginary or trifling inconvenience; that would take fire from men because it burns, and water because one may drown in it; that has no remedy for evils except destruction. The laws that forbid the carrying of arms are laws of such a nature. They disarm only those who are neither inclined nor determined to commit crime." Cesare Beccaria, quoted by Thomas Jefferson.

(Continued on next page)

The Founders' Words Reveal Intent . . .

(Continued from previous page)

"The people never give up their liberties but under some delusion." Edmund Burke (1784).

"Whenever Governments mean to invade the rights and liberties of the people, they always attempt to destroy the militia, in order to raise an army upon their ruins." Rep. Elbridge Gerry of Massachusetts, spoken during floor debate over the Second Amendment, I Annals of Congress at p. 750, August 17, 1789.

"Americans have the right and advantage of being armed—unlike the citizens of other countries whose governments are afraid to trust the people with arms." James Madison, The Federalist Papers No. 46 at 243-244.

"Congress have no power to disarm the militia. Their swords, and every other terrible implement of the soldier, are the birthright of an American... The unlimited power of the sword is not in the hands of either the federal or state government, but, where I trust in God it will ever remain, in the hands of the people" Tench Coxe, Pennsylvania Gazette, Feb. 20, 1788.

"To preserve liberty, it is essential that the whole body of people always possess arms, and be taught alike especially when young, how to use them." Richard Henry Lee, 1788.

"The great object is that every man be armed [and] everyone who is able may have a gun." Patrick Henry.

"Are we at last brought to such humiliating and debasing degradation, that we cannot be trusted with arms for our defense? Where is the difference between having our arms in possession and under our direction, and having them under the management of Congress? If our defense be the real object of having those arms, in whose hands can they be trusted with more propriety, or equal safety to us, as in our own hands?" Patrick Henry.

"The best we can hope for concerning the people at large is that they be properly armed." Alexander Hamilton, The Federalist Papers at 184-8.

"The supposed quietude of a good man allures the ruffian; while on the other hand, arms like laws discourage and keep the invader and the plunderer in awe, and preserve order in the world as well as property. The same balance would be preserved were all the world destitute of arms, for all would be alike; but since some will not, others dare not lay them aside... Horrid mischief would ensue were one half the world deprived of the use of them..." Thomas Paine.

"...[T]he people are confirmed by the next article in their right to keep and bear their private arms. From article in the Philadelphia Federal Gazette, June 18,1789 at 2, col.2.

"What country can preserve its liberties if their rulers are not warned from time to time that their people preserve the spirit of resistance. Let them take arms." Thomas Jefferson to James Madison.

"The people are not to be disarmed of their weapons. They are left in full possession of them." Zachariah Johnson, 3 Elliot, Debates at 646

"That the said Constitution shall never be construed to authorize Congress to infringe the just liberty of the press or the rights of conscience; or to prevent the people of The United States who are peaceable citizens from keeping their own arms...

"Samuel Adams, during Massachusetts' Convention to Ratify the Constitution (1788).

As for the view from my foxhole...

"The most essential elements of preserving American liberty are God, guts and a free mind connected to a well disciplined trigger finger." Colonel Dan.

Contact Colonel Dan: coloneldan@bellsouth.net Colonel Dan's Blog: http://coloneldan1776.com/

THE TOUGH NEW BLACK ROCK FINISH IS NOW AVAILABLE ON TAYLOR'S RUNNIN' IRON MODEL

Black powder blanks can wreak havoc on the inside of a revolver barrel. And the residue left behind can result in serious frame corrosion, too. But when you're riding and shooting to win, there's not always time for immediate cleaning.

So you need a gun finish that's tough. Like the new Black Rock finish from Taylor's. Its carbo-nitride hardening resists abrasion and corrosion. Lets you go longer between cleanings. And keeps your gun looking new.

MORE Coming Soon A whole posse of your favorite Taylor's models with the new Black Rock finish are on the way!

CALL (540) 722-2017 OR VISIT TAYLORSFIREARMS.COM TO ORDER.

